Bennett Still Optimist

Premier Bennett said Monday he is "very optimistic" that B.C. exports to the U.S. will suffer relatively little as a result of the import surcharge introduced by President Nixon.

"The part of Canada which will be hurt most" by the surcharge, Bennett said, are the manufacturing centres of Ontario and Quebec.

He said as far as B.C. is concerned pulp and paper exports aren't affected and lumber exports will likely only be subjected to a surcharge of $3 a thousand feet.

The concern shown by Ottawa over the effects of the surcharge, the premier said, shows that B.C. is right in advocating a common market between the U.S. and Canada which would remain separate countries but with fully shared trading interests.

Meanwhile, Bennett added, the B.C. economy is making "great headway" in the face of current international economic troubles.

He quoted Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showing 891,000 persons gainfully employed in the province in July, 48,000 more than for the same month in 1970. In the same period the provincial labor force has increased by 31,000 to 850,000.

"In spite of this," Bennett said, "British Columbia still had a reduction in unemployment for the 12-month period July to July, of 17,000. In July, 1970, there were 76,000 unemployed and by last July this figure had dropped to 59,000."

Bus Blown Up in Suicide Try

Fugitives 'Alert' South Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — Twenty-three inmates of a South Korean island military prison killed 12 prison officials and escaped by boat Monday. Fifteen of the fugitives blew themselves up in what's believed a mass suicide a few hours later when surrounded by troops and police.

The fleeing prisoners, armed with carbines and pistols, killed at least three more persons, including two policemen, and wounded 11 others during a 20-mile ride toward Seoul aboard a commandeered passenger bus. Defence Minister Jung Nae-Hiuk told a news conference.

Jung said the mass break for freedom was finally halted south of Seoul by army troops and policemen. Fifteen of the escaped prisoners blew themselves up aboard the bus in an apparent mass suicide, Jung said.

Four survived the explosion and were taken to an army hospital. Another had been shot and killed in Incheon, where three others had been wounded and captured.

Jung said that in addition to the 12 prison officials killed, another was wounded and seven others were missing.

South Korean military authorities originally thought the escaped prisoners were communist North Korean agents trying to raid Seoul. The defence ministry put all South Korean forces on special alert. Three hours later the alert was called off when it was determined the men were not North Koreans.

Jung said the escaped prisoners were from the air force prison on Shilmi Island off Incheon 20 miles west of Seoul.

They staged a mutiny Monday morning and took over a civilian boat to sail to Incheon where they commandeered the bus. It was about eight hours after the mutiny started that the bus was stopped near Seoul.

Deputy District Attorney Richard Hecht made the disclosure after a grand jury wound up a five-day hearing into allegations of possible tampering in the Los Angeles county clerk's office with evidence used at the Sirhan Sirhan trial.

Widespread Insurrection Hits Philippines—Marcos

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand Marcos declared Monday that armed communist rebels with foreign support had infiltrated almost every level of Philippines society and an insurrection is in progress.

To combat it, he said, police have been empowered since Saturday night to arrest without warrants and to detain indefinitely without charge. He would invoke martial law if the situation worsens. The president's emergency proclamation drew denunciations from political opponents and others who accused Marcos of trying to silence administration critics.

Military intelligence sources said more than 20 persons suspected of leading the reported insurrection had been detained since Sunday for questioning. The Philippines constitution forbids detention for more than six hours without charge.

The president's announcement came two days after explosions at a political rally in downtown Manila killed nine persons and wounded more than 90, including most leaders of the Liberal party opposing Marcos.

Sunday night, three Nationalist party government facilities were bombed but no one was injured.

In a radio and television address, Marcos said the rebels follow the teachings of Marx, Lenin and Mao, and have the moral and material support of a foreign power.

The board of directors of the National Press Club charged that Marcos had delivered "a severe blow to civil liberties."

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy charged Monday that literally dozens of police officers have accepted $10,000 bribes in recent years to turn a blind eye to the drug traffic.

He said in a radio interview that the $10,000 sum for an average bribe was not an exaggerated figure.

Murphy said he could hardly imagine allowing ranking officials to remain in the service if they refused to fill out the questionnaires about their financial status he gave them at a tumultuous meeting earlier in the day.

The commissioner said Sunday he was fed up with what he termed the failure of top commanders to root out corruption, and met Monday morning with 235 men above the rank of captain.

Police sources said several commanders threatened to resign rather than fill out the questionnaires.

A police spokesman said the meeting lasted 30 minutes; other sources said it went on for hours.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Southbound rush-hour traffic was delayed Monday afternoon when a truck carrying a high load jammed the entrance to Deas Island tunnel.

Both lanes in the southbound side of the tunnel were closed for close to 45 minutes before highway crews restored the tunnel lights and cleared debris.

'Things To Change' Haddock Will Run For Mayor Again

By HUBERT BEYER

Well rested and full of enthusiasm, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock bounced back to civic life Monday.

Nixon Visit Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Some preliminary feelers are being sent to Washington to encourage President Nixon to visit Ottawa this fall.

Prime Minister Trudeau is reported to be anxious to meet Nixon to discuss U.S. economic moves.

Trudeau is said to be anxious for a personal meeting with Nixon — but in Canada.

The government is not happy with opposition statements that a Canadian delegation went to Washington "with cap in hand" to seek favors for Canada.

On his plans to run for mayor again in the December civic elections, Haddock had this to say:

"My name will stand unless I get a direct order from my doctor not to continue in public office and I have no reason to believe that he will do so."

"I've been told that I came out of this (the heart attack) with no damage at all. I may have to cut back somewhat on the workload though."

"When I was first elected, I thought my job was to listen quietly and mediate, but I'm through listening," Haddock said.

"From now on, I intend to make my views known — loud and clear," he added.

He lashed out at Curtis for what Haddock said was a suggestion that Victoria transfer ownership of Thetis Lake Park to the Capital Regional Board without financial compensation.

"I would have Mr. Curtis know that as long as I'm mayor of this city I will not participate in the dissipation of the taxpayers' assets. Why

The rejection was a severe blow to Bunker, who has worked tirelessly in recent days to break the impasse.

Chief Says Boy Shot in Back

RESTIGOUCHE, Que. (CP) — Miemac Chief William Wyssotte said Monday the first of two Indian youths shot here Saturday "was shot in the back without warning."

Chief Wyssotte said in a statement no Indians from the Restigouche reserve attempted to enter or burn the local school where the shooting took place. The first youth was sitting on the school steps when he was shot.

Quebec Provincial Police at Rimouski, 100 miles west of here, said the shots were fired by a guard hired by the school board to protect school property.

A police spokesman said a call was received from Irene Pettigrew, principal at the local school, saying Indians were breaking windows in the building.

"How many there were, we weren't told, but we sent officers to keep the peace."

Nine men were sent Saturday and 10 more Sunday to maintain order at the reserve but they returned to their posts after the weekend.

A 23-year-old Restigouche man and a 13-year-old Pembroke, Ont., boy were at first reported wounded but Chief Wyssotte said Monday that two teenagers were shot.

Haddock To Run For Mayor Again

should the citizens give away a park? "I wasn't elected to sell the taxpayers down the drain," Haddock said. Instead, he said, he would like to see the region lease the park from the city. Maintenance costs would be shared equally on a regional basis. (In an interview Saturday, Curtis did not say that the land should be transferred without financial consideration, but agreed that the region has no money to buy the park. He did suggest that transfer of the land would save the city maintenance costs, and that some consideration could be given Victoria taxpayers in a financing formula for upkeep.) The mayor also criticized Curtis for his remarks regarding Saanich council's refusal in the past to contribute any more funds to the Victoria Visitors' Bureau. Curtis said last week he had no reason to believe that his council would change that policy. Tourism, he said, was important, but Saanich had more important things to do first. "I wish Mr. Curtis would stop talking out of both sides of his mouth. On one hand, he says tourism is very important to the city, on the other hand Saanich refuses to pay its share to the bureau," Haddock said.

Haddock: Things will be different

He sniped at Pollen for his "continued harassment" of prospective developers, particularly J. A. Reid, proponent of the controversial Reid Centre to be built on Wharf below Bastion Square. "I haven't said yes or no to the Reid Centre, but I'm willing to hear the man out," the mayor said.

Ky Plan

While Thieu has thus far maintained official silence on the plan, his rejection to it would leave him alone as a candidate and focus immediate attention on the next move by the United States. U.S. officials indicated privately last week that a South Vietnamese election with only one candidate would lead to reconsideration of the Nixon administration's Vietnam policies, including the possibility of cutbacks in aid.

Barring a new interpretation of the law that says it is too late for Ky's name to be removed, both Thieu's and Ky's names will appear on the ballot. The vice-president said his plan was necessary "to avoid the prospects of dark days in the history of this nation." Ky said his decision arose from his conviction that the election was rigged by Thieu. A similar charge accompanied the withdrawal from the race last week of Gen. Big Minh.

Meanwhile, there was tension in the capital. Speculation that Thieu's palace guard had been reinforced was touched off by the arrival Monday evening of several truckloads of paratroops in combat gear. An increase in police on downtown streets and in the vicinity of the palace had been noted by residents sever-

Kennedy in Court

HYANNIS, Mass. — Robert F. Kennedy Jr., 17, son of the late New York senator, was ordered to pay $50 in court costs on a loitering charge Monday after he allegedly spat ice cream into a policeman's face. He was arrested Sunday night, about two weeks after his probation ended for a marijuana offense. The policeman said Kennedy was talking to a girl in a parked car which was obstructing the traffic flow on busy West Main Street. He said Kennedy refused to move along.

Kennedy, long haired and wearing sandals, a blue work shirt and patched dungarees, pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) when arraigned in Barnstable district court.

Because Kennedy has insufficient money, Judge Henry Murphy gave him one week to pay. Kennedy appeared alone and without a lawyer in court.

Welfare If Work Unavailable

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau says a healthy young man should not receive financial assistance from society as long as jobs are available and he is capable of work.

But if society cannot help a man find a job "I think we should take care of him because society is responsible for his social organization, and if it can't provide the where-withal for men to be gainfully employed then it should pay the penalty and give them welfare."

The prime minister's statements were published in the current issue of the United Church Observer. Trudeau was interviewed by the magazine's editor, Rev. A. C. Forrest. "If he can work and there is work available," he should take his choice," said Trudeau. "If he wants to be a hermit or beggar, that's fine. If he wants to move with the sun and live off the land that's fine. If he is in a society that has work for him I don't think he should theoretically be eligible for welfare."

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

Diabetes: Yes or No?

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D. Dear Dr. Thosteson: My doctor says I'm a "borderline diabetic." Is there any medication for this? Or is diet the only help? I'm not at all familiar with what this means except for me it has been complete fatigue. And after seven months of the diet, I haven't gained much in strength. Frankly I'm sick and tired of being sick and tired. — M.B. The phrase "borderline diabetic" is used very frequently but I am not sure that it really means much of anything. A person does have diabetes or he doesn't. Granted, there has to be a time at which the sugar level just passes over the line but it is only by rare chance that we happen to test a patient at that particular time. But usually the sugar-tolerance test, showing the pattern of rise and fall of sugar, tells the story.

In equivocal cases, a "cortisone glucose tolerance test" can be used. This consists of giving the patient a small dose of cortisone eight hours, and then again two hours, before running the sugar-tolerance test. This brings out about 25 per cent more positive sugar curves than the standard test.

But to go on with your case, I wish I knew your age, your weight, the type of diet you are following, and such data. A mild diabetes should not make you consistently "sick and tired." Have you investigated the condition of your thyroid? Or are you anemic? If you are overweight, by all means reduce but if by chance you are following a diet that doesn't provide what you need, then the diet needs some revision.

Let's say, for argument's sake, that you actually are diabetic, but you aren't eating enough for your physical needs.

A somewhat less restricted diet could be arranged for you, and one of the oral diabetes medications used in a good many diabetes authorities are still helpful but should be properly used.

By that I mean that it does not make sense to go ahead and eat anything and everything you want, and then reduce your gauge level with the diabetes pills.

Banzer moved quickly Monday to consolidate his hold on the country. He suspended all private and public activities and named a new armed forces commander, Col. Remberto Iriarte, a former Bolivian ambassador to Argentina.

Banzer, Iriarte and Col. Andres Selich, head of Bolivia's U.S.-trained ranger battalion, led the revolt that ousted leftist President Juan Jose Torres over the weekend.

Torres was hiding out Monday in the Peruvian embassy along with 25 of his aides and former officials, according to officials in Lima. They said the Peruvian ambassador was seeking a pledge of safe conduct from the new regime to allow Torres to leave the country.

A former army chief before he seized power last October in a coup, Torres fled into the Peruvian embassy Sunday after failure of last-ditch efforts to rally his followers in the capital to halt the advance of the insurgents. The Argentine foreign office in Buenos Aires said that Torres' wife and three children were in hiding in the Argentine embassy in La Paz.

Death Toll In Ulster Rises to 31

BELFAST (Reuter) — The death toll in Northern Ireland's latest bout of sectarian violence rose to 31 Monday when a sniper's bullet killed British soldier.

Army sources said it appeared that the soldier, 35th to die in Northern Ireland this year, was slain by an Irish Republican Army marksman taking cover in a abandoned building about 200 yards from the Plas Greec headquarters of the Stree Howard's 1st Battalion.

San Quentin Inmate Plot Break 'First Stage'

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI)—Prison officials said Monday a bloody escape attempt in which six persons died may have been the planned first stage in a mass breakout by San Quentin prison's most hardened convicts, wearing the uniforms of murdered guards.

Authorities sought the grandson of a former Connecticut governor and U.S. senator for questioning about the smuggled gun, hidden in the "afrostyle" hair of black revolutionary George Jackson, who touched off the escape attempt.

San Quentin officials said Jackson produced the gun Saturday a few minutes after he was visited by attorney Stephen Mitchell Bingham, 29, grandson of the late Hiram Bingham.

Twenty minutes later, Jackson was shot to death as he broke out of the prison's "adjustment centre" for hard-core convicts and the bodies of three guards and two white prisoners were found piled in Jackson's cell.

Gov. Ronald Reagan called the slayings of the three guards "senseless and senseless" and said it was "the result of efforts by revolutionary elements in our society intent on extending their religion of violence, hate and murder to within the walls of our prisons."

The governor, vacationing at his Pacific Palisades home, said he had sent personal condolences of "deep and heartfelt sympathy" to the slain guards' families and ordered state capital flags in Sacramento flown at half-mast.

State director of corrections Raymond Proconier said in Sacramento the guard's bodies were found stripped. He said the plan may have been for the inmates to put on their uniforms and escort Jackson back to the visitor's centre where they could take hostages and try to escape. Proconier said it would have been doomed to failure in any event.

"What they probably didn't know was that we don't dicker with prisoners holding hostages, and it doesn't matter who it is," he said. As it turned out, a guard outside the adjustment centre was alerted to the attempted rescue when a shot as fired through the door window. He returned in the alarm, while three fellow guards were being systematically murdered inside the cell block, their throats slashed with a razor blade.

Proconier also said there would be stringent crackdowns at all prisons on violent and inflammatory literature and on the convicts, like Jackson, who held such beliefs.

Veterinarian Battles To Save Brave Bull

JEREZ DE LA FRONTERA, Spain (UPI)—A veterinarian was in almost constant attendance Monday to save the life of a bull that was saved from death in a bull-fighting arena because of its extraordinary bravery.

Chances for the survival of Melena were described as good, even though it will take at least a month to recover from the wounds inflicted by the picadores and banderilleros. Their job is to wear the bull down by lancing and stabbing its neck and back muscles before the matador kills it.

No more than two or three bulls are pardoned in Spanish arenas every year. Some of them are too badly hurt or have lost too much blood to survive the trip home and become seed bulls.

Melena, who weighs more than half a ton, was spared Saturday by the jury of the Andalusian ring of Antequera. Mexican matador Curro Viera had no choice but to respect the request. The spectators noisily agreed.

Melena's home ranch is one of the famous breeding farms of the Marquess of Domecq. A spokesman said the bull was almost certain to survive and will soon roam the Andalusian plains again.

Doctor Joins 20 Charged In Conspiracy

CAMDEN, N.J. (UPI)—An osteopath whose ranch home was allegedly used by 26 anti-war activists to plan raids on a draft board office here surrendered Monday and was promptly charged with six counts of conspiracy.

Dr. William Anderson, 36, an imposing 6-foot-4, surrendered at the U.S. attorney's office and was questioned by FBI agents from more than an hour.

Anderson, released on $10,000 bond, was charged with conspiring to remove and mutilate public records, steal government property, destroy government property and commit a crime on a government reservation.

With the surrender of Anderson, who lives in a modern ranch house in suburban Hadon township, the FBI has now charged 21 persons, including two Roman Catholic priests and a Lutheran minister, with conspiring to raid the draft offices on the fifth floor of the Federal Building here. The FBI said it was seeking five other persons.

The agents, alerted by a tip from an informant who had infiltrated the anti-war group, made 30 arrests Sunday morning. Eight persons were arrested in the draft board offices, eight others in the apartment of the Protestant minister and four others in a nearby churchyard.

Flaming Crash Kills Five

BAKER, Ore. (AP)—A flaming head-on collision between two trucks near Baker claimed five lives early Monday.

The force of the collision and the ensuing fire fused the front ends of the trucks and spread debris over half a mile of highway, officers said.

The victims included four members of a Baker family — two in the cab of the pickup and two in the car being towed. Police identified them as John Duane Harris, 23, his wife, Bonnie, 30, and sons, Michael, 3, and David, 1.

The fifth victim was identified as Leo Bainter, 31, of Baker, driver of the trailer rig.

Army sources said it appeared that the soldier, the 15th to die in Northern Ireland this year, was slain by an Irish Republican Army marksman taking cover in an abandoned building about 70 yards from the Flax Street headquarters of the Green Howard's 1st Battalion.

The soldier was standing guard on the heavily-sandbagged rooftop of the battalion's headquarters, which straddles what people here call the peace line—a heavy-wire-mesh division separating Protestant and Roman Catholic areas near the Crumlin Road.

About 1,000 Protestants from the area are leaving Northern Ireland because of the violence near their homes.

Earlier Monday, a man died in hospital of bullet wounds received when Northern Ireland's current state of violence started two weeks ago.

In London, Prime Minister Edward Heath turned down an opposition request for the recall of Parliament.

Alcohol, Drug Addiction

'Swinging Intellectuals Bringing Grief To Many'

THUNDER BAY, Ont. (CP)—Scholars and intellectuals have done mischief in the areas of alcohol and drug addiction because they haven't wanted to appear straight-laced in the eyes of the public, a Toronto psychiatrist said Monday.

Dr. Andrew Malcolm said this intellectual elite had "better stop being terrified by their reputations and start expressing some honest views."

Speaking at the opening of a week-long seminar on alcohol and drug addiction sponsored by the Addiction Research Foundation of Ontario, Malcolm said "the scholars want to be fashionable and acceptable, so they affect a swinging attitude and try to reflect the people who approach them in some cases."

He said this attitude on the part of intellectuals has confused the public and brought grief to many people.

Malcolm said scholars were one of several groups of people

B.C. Police Curlers Pick the Wrong Man

OTTAWA (CP)—When police curling clubs of British Columbia came to the aid of cigarette manufacturers, they failed to reckon with MP Barry Mather.

Mather, long a parliamentary agitator for a ban on smoking and on cigarette advertising, made the police appeal on behalf of the manufacturers public Monday along with a blunt reply.

The New Democrat MP for Surrey-White Rock received a letter signed by Sgt. R. G. McKay secretary-treasurer of the Associated Police Curling Clubs of British Columbia.

It says, in part: "We strongly urge that you use your influence and your vote to ensure that sponsorship of sporting events by a cigarette manufacturer and the use of the sponsor's name in the title of the event be exempted from the ban."

It seems Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd., planned to sponsor the local and national police curling championships, solving their "greatest problem"—lack of finances.

Replied Mather: "Far from trying to ensure, as you ask, that such a situation is countenanced, I aim to stop it."

Mather said: "I am astounded that an organization such as yours plans to accept support from the makers of a product found hazardous to health and physical fitness."

He follows that with a page of statistics about the physical consequences and costs to the public of smoking-associated diseases such as lung cancer, heart ailments and emphysema.

Ralph Nader Challenged To Prove GM Tipped Off

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. commerce secretary Maurice H. Stans Monday challenged Ralph Nader either to prove his charge the American government had tipped off General Motors in advance about its plans to impose a wage-price freeze or to apologize.

Nader, the consumer advocate, made the charge Friday at a hearing of the House-Senate economic committee. He cited as evidence GM's decision to sell 1972 model cars, at 1972 prices, before the model year started and well before the customary selling season opens.

"I am convinced that no official of this administration made any attempt to supply advance information to individual manufacturers and for Mr. Nader to make such a claim without concrete evidence is the height of irresponsibility," he said.

And General Motors chairman James M. Roche also said GM had no advance knowledge of Nixon's wage-price-freeze when it put 1972 models on sale early at increased prices.

"This decision (Nixon's economic policies) was 10 days after we had raised our prices, so it obviously had nothing to do with the price increases," he said.

High Jumper Purloins Pot

OTTAWA (CP)—Pot fanciers, including a talented high jumper, raiding the well-fenced federal marijuana patch, are endangering Canadian research into the effects of marijuana smoking.

"This is really serious," senior food and drug directorate officers told a news conference Monday detailing three raids this month on the guarded three-acre marijuana crop in the capital's west central section. One, on Thursday, was successful.

"He got over the five-foot fence; he must have been quite a high jumper because he cleared it without touching it," reported Dr. A. B. Morrison, deputy director-general.

"There is evidence a small number of plants were lost. He got away with six, seven or eight."

The trouble is that the marijuana field contains some unique strains of the plant garnered from around the world. The directorate had the federal agriculture department experimental farm growing them to provide a standardized form of marijuana for research.

"It was just blind luck that none of the rare strains were lost," Morrison said.

"We have had three assaults on the grounds," he said. Two arrests were made after one of the three guard dogs sniffed out 11 plastic garbage bags harvested and stacked near the wire fence Aug. 15.

Franklin Loved Lucy

Eleanor's Divorce Threat Ended Romance

NEW YORK (Reuter)—Eleanor Roosevelt once threatened to divorce her husband Franklin, the future president, if he refused to end a romance with her social secretary, says a book to be published here in October.

Roosevelt and Lucy Page Mercer agreed never to see each other again, writes author Joseph Lash in Eleanor and Franklin, based on Mrs. Roosevelt's private papers.

Mrs. Roosevelt first employed Miss Mercer, then 22, in the winter of 1913-14 to help with social correspondence. Roosevelt at the time was assistant secretary of the navy, a post he held until 1920. He was president from 1933 until his death in 1945.

The book says Mrs. Roosevelt found out about the romance in 1918 after her husband returned from a trip to Europe and was stricken with double pneumonia.

Lash, a close friend and political associate of Mrs. Roosevelt until her death in 1962, writes:

"Eleanor took care of his mail, and in the course of doing so she came upon Lucy's letters. Her worst fears were confirmed. Her world seemed to break into pieces . . .

"She confronted her husband with Lucy's letters. She was prepared to give her husband his freedom, she told him, if after thinking over what the consequences might be for the children, he still wanted to end their marriage."

Vietnam Election Crisis

WESTERN-STYLE DEMOCRACY may have gained some footholds through the United States' great effort in Vietnam, but the ground is still far from being stable. It continues to break away at the top as evidenced by the latest moves in Saigon for the presidential election scheduled for October 3.

The manipulations on all sides would appear to go far beyond allowable limits — even those of Washington in its efforts to establish free elections in the fight against communism.

Naturally the United States looks for a contest in the naming of a president, but it would appear at this point that Nguyen Van Thieu will be returning by acclamation, which is what he evidently had planned all along.

He pressured the National Assembly in June to pass a law requiring prospective candidates for the presidency to obtain the endorsement of 40 legislative representatives or 100 provincial councillors to get on the ballot. He then obtained for himself 104 nominating petitions from the legislature as well as 452 from provincial councils. And when Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky attempted to file nomination papers in a challenge to Thieu, it was ruled there was duplication in his endorsements which is not allowed. The Supreme Court upheld the ruling, and then on the weekend just passed, it reversed its decision.

The reversal came after a third prospective candidate, General Duong Van Minh had withdrawn, claiming the election was Thieu-rigged. It came, also, after it was suggested that the United States would cut off further aid to the South Vietnamese government if there was only one candidate for the top office.

The immediate reaction of Hanoi, which undoubtedly is shared by many opponents in the United States to the war in Vietnam, was that the return of Ky's name on the ballot was "a farce ordered by President Nixon in a vain attempt to give the appearance of legality" to the election.

Now Ky says he will not take advantage of the court's new ruling. Although he was bitter, to the extreme, over his original disqualification, he claims there was no formal appeal to the court. He complicates the issue further by saying Thieu ordered the change as a result of General Minh's withdrawal. Thieu's re-election is "prefabricated" and the court was used "to serve the political ambitions (of Thieu)" who planned "to use an opponent slate as a screen to conceal electoral fraud."

Ky would now have the whole thing called off and the election process started afresh, with Senate President Nguyen Van Huynh organizing the new balloting.

This might be the answer, although it would appear that a similar situation would arise. There undoubtedly are further troubled times ahead. The presidential election crisis is bound to be reflected in the balloting for a new lower house of the National Assembly planned at the end of this month. While the example it has set may have not been the best, the United States must find a way to overcome the refusal, or inability of South Vietnam to accepted democratic ideals fully.

The War on the Doctors

IF ANYONE IS growing a little confused over the B.C. government's war on the doctors—well, no wonder. Perhaps that's the way the cabinet would like us all to be.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark's original explanation for the order-in-council giving him dictatorial power to permit or deny hospital privileges to doctors was that it would enable him to direct doctors where they were most needed, though it would seldom be used.

One would have thought that the health minister, of all people, would know the reason for the order. But when the hubbub arose over giving Mr. Loffmark (or a successor) such arbitrary authority, Premier Bennett made it appear that this wasn't the reason at all: the purpose of this order, and another on the licensing and utilization of laboratories, was to bring the doctors to the bargaining table to help keep down the cost of medicare.

In other words, the government had fashioned a club with which to threaten the doctors? That is certainly the way it looked when the premier was reported to have said in Dawson Creek last Tuesday that he offered doctors in the province full freedom of action if they would agree to hold down medicare costs. But no.

On Sunday Mr. Bennett explained that he wasn't talking about the doctors' right to look after their patients and practice throughout the province. The cabinet had never considered these matters. He was talking, he said, of them having freedom of action to set their own schedule of fees if they would agree to limit the annual increase in the cost of medicare; he suggested the limit should be 10 per cent a year to take care of population growth and other factors.

This is all very well if within that 10 per cent there is room for a fee increase. But the premier himself doesn't appear to think so, for he suggests that the doctors should take a 10 per cent cut in their schedule this year and a rate-freeze "until inflation is licked." Is this what he means by the doctors' freedom of action to set their own fee schedule? If so, he is talking nonsense.

Pettiness

PROVINCIAL HIGHWAYS workers have been taking down Trans-Canada Highway marker signs and replacing them with signs designating the highway as B.C. 1. The old signs bore a maple leaf, but mentioned British Columbia. The new signs bear a B.C. shield, and nothing with a national connotation.

Since the beginning of the year, the highway has been solely a provincial responsibility. But surely it is still the Trans-Canada Highway.

One wonders if the provincial government would like Victoria to stoop to its level of pettiness and alter the Mile 0 marker to indicate that this is the beginning of a highway to the Alberta border.

OUR READERS' VIEWS

A Week Later

WHILE government leaders in all other countries have been "on the job" constantly, working overtime on the major economic and financial developments (the United States brought about) only now, nearly a week later, does Mr. Trudeau decide to interrupt his latest trip away from Canada and his job.

How long must Canadians put up with this dilettante jet-setter doing his latest "thing" while occupying the top government post in the entire country, but failing to do the work.

Hopefully the time will soon come when capable and concerned men like Mr. Stanfield and his colleagues will be voted into office to endeavor to straighten out some of the mess.

Second Looks

What is an "order-in-council"? How many cabinet ministers make a quorum for a meeting? It seems to have been forgotten that in July, 1970, an "order-in-council" was passed to cut paramedical coverage to a ridiculous low level, for monetary reasons, but in the budget Mr. Bennett proudly boasted of a large surplus. Now, a year later, history is repeating itself concerning the whole medical profession, with

Power Quest

Political events of the past few days must give either consternation or satisfaction to the Social Credit government of this province, now that Dr. G. Scott Wallace, after an inordinate amount of "heart searching," has decided to resign from the party and sit as an independent in the legislature.

Such an emotionally-charged decision may conceivably deprive us of his pontifical pronouncements of doom on the political and health welfare scene in this province, and if this is so I, for one, shall be eternally grateful to him. For too long, the eminent doctor, by virtue of his presumed superior intellect and an accent that God has vouchsafed to only a chosen few, has harangued the public in his insatiable quest of power.

I cannot comment on his confrontation with the government about the recent legislation affecting the medical profession in this province, but his condemnation of the minister of health services as

Big Loss

I am writing about the government losing one of its best members, and the one I, and a lot of others, think should be our health minister. The one we have just thinks in numbers and hasn't had any medical training, so I understand. Dr. Scott Wallace never beat about the bush like a lot of the members do.

Three cheers for the doctor. (Mrs.) WARREN KENNEDY, 3280 Wascana St., Victoria.

I have been urged by one of your readers to have the typographical error in my letter of Aug. 15 corrected for the benefit of all our long-haired friends.

The correct Bible quotation is 1 Corinthians, Chapter II, Verses 14 and 15, which reads: "Does not nature itself teach you that for a man to wear long hair is degrading to him, but if a woman has long hair, it is her pride. For her hair is given to her for a covering."

MEDICINE MAKERS ON TARGET

By PENNY LERNOUX from Bogota

ASPIRIN, and other medicines, give Colombia headaches.

Unlike other Latin Americans, the average Colombian takes a relatively pragmatic view of U.S. investment, whether it be in petroleum, minerals or manufacturing.

He has no hangups about "U.S. exploitation" and generally welcomes the Yankee businessman. That is, until the subject of medicines comes up. While Chile, Bolivia, Peru and Venezuela are closing in on the U.S.-owned oil and mining industries, Colombians again are beating their favorite whipping boy, the foreign-owned pharmaceutical industry.

In retaliation for the burning of public buildings at York, now Toronto, British troops burned the White House in Washington 157 years ago today — in 1814 — during the War of 1812. Earlier that month a British fleet entered Chesapeake Bay and landed an army under command of Gen. Robert Ross. Their only opposition before Washington was some 5,000 militiamen hastily gathered to defend the city.

After an unsuccessful attempt to capture Baltimore, Ross' troops re-embarked for attacks at other points along the coast.

1954 — President Eisenhower signed Communist Control Act, outlawing Communist Party of U.S.A.

1943 — The Quebec Conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill ended with the declaration that they had reached full agreement on future moves against the Axis.

Due primarily to the large concentration of foreign drug companies here, Colombia has long been engaged in an on-again, off-again battle with medicine-makers.

Successive Colombian governments have accused the foreign companies of charging their Colombian subsidiaries excessive prices for raw materials. The government claims that between 1967 and the first half of 1970 the drug companies imported $75 million in goods but that the real value of the material was only $30 million, netting subsidiaries' suppliers a profit of $45 million.

The drug companies' traditional high-price-of-research argument has been rejected by Colombians, who counter that only 5 per cent of the patents registered here have been used in the United States or Europe, where the research takes place.

The government of President Misael Pastrana takes the view that the drug companies' operations must be controlled to promote the people's welfare.

Protecting the Oil Routes

Cape of Good Hope Or Despair

By R. S. MALONE, Publisher and Editor-in-Chief, Wainipeg Free Press Second of a Series

come active in Europe. Her endeavor is to become the major oil supplier to Europe. At present, Britain is the only remaining European country that does not import some oil from Russia. For Canada to protest that Britain should not supply ships, aircraft and tracking equipment to guard her oil routes via the Indian Ocean is quite irresponsible.

Mr. Tackaberry also makes the observation that availability of Middle East oil will be an economic necessity for the U.S.S.R. and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe within ten years. Meanwhile, from an economic point of view, the European oil market helps Russia satisfy her balance of payments problems.

Russia is extending its pipeline network with the co-operation of many European countries. "How ironic," he says, "it would be to have Europe help finance the construction of the vast U.S.S.R. pipeline network so necessary to facilitate any future invasion of Western Europe."

Conversely, the defences of Western Europe could be paralyzed should Russia be able to cut off the supply of oil through her pipelines and at the same time block the tanker route from the Persian Gulf via the Indian Ocean.

Realization of this fact faces France with one of her greatest challenges today and explains much about the so-called Paris-Cairo axis. This rapprochement is dictated by French anxiety over oil. It will be recalled that the U.S.S.R. was also active in destroying French influence in North Africa. Jean-Jacques Berberly, writing in the monthly The New Middle East, states that "acceptance of all the Algerian demands or the total collapse of the French oil policies and with it France's Mediterranean policy — such are the alternatives facing France today."

Today In History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

In the closing of the Suez Canal the only way to guarantee the supply of Middle East oil to the West is through control of the Gulf of Iran. It can be assumed that besides trying to terminate Western monopoly of Middle East oil fields, the Soviets are also aiming at naval dominance of the Gulf. The new Conservative government in England, however, has now reversed Harold Wilson's policy of "withdrawal East of Suez" and is committed to maintaining a military presence in the Gulf.

The opening of the Suez Canal again would give Russia a quick and valuable naval access to the Indian Ocean. To dominate the area, however, Russia must maintain naval forces "on station" in the Indian Ocean, and large naval bases are essential. Before the arrival of the U.S.S. Far East Fleet when released from the Vietnam conflict Russia would hope to have such arrangements completed.

In his special study of South Africa, U.S. Gen. S. L. A. Marshall advises the United States that in that part of the world "we need all the friends we can get... friendly harbors, ports with modern facilities and the skills to man them... sea power may extend its authority just so far as there are bases where it can be fueled and serviced."

In this context South Africa's large Simonstown port at the Cape is of major strategic importance to the West; it is the only great naval base and graving yard in that quarter of the globe. Under the Simonstown Agreement with South Africa, Britain is committed to supplying arms to safeguard and patrol the shipping routes through the Indian Ocean. It is the sale of these arms which Canada protests so absurdly to Britain on the basis that they would be used by South Africa for apartheid purposes. The importance of the Simonstown port and the protection of trade routes round the Cape will be examined in a subsequent article.

Wels

Some of the people of Wales — part of the United Kingdom for some four centuries — are sufficiently keen on the idea of making Cardiff the capital of a sovereign, independent state, that they are going to some lengths to make their views known.

In the past five years Welsh militant nationalists have waved leaflets, thrown bombs, painted statues of the Welsh national color (red, green and white), interrupted court proceedings, broken into the House of Commons in London and most recently — begun to change English language road signs into Welsh. (Example: Danger Road Works Ahead became Perygl: Gwaith Ar Yr Heol.)

Two of the militant nationalists, tragically young, managed to blow themselves to bits while fusing explosives a year or so ago, and after that the was diminished interest in the protests among the office and ranks of the Free Wales Army, the most desperate expression of Welsh nationalism yet.

The "army" has more glamour than fire-power, for while its commander-in-chief, "General" Cayon Evans, has spoken of his well-trained army of 2,000 Celts, at no parade has he been able to must more than a dozen men.

But it would be wrong to dismiss any cause because the violence of its expression and the Free Wales Army was not alone in passionately pleading for an independent Wales.

No one has actually counted how many Welsh regard the national identity as something worth fighting for, but census figures show that 1 per cent of the population (numbering nearly three million) speak Welsh as a first language, and over one per cent speak only Welsh.

The English claim that

Outside Forces Sustain Rebels

By STANLEY MEISLER from Asmara

Like most rebellions of the Third World, the one in Ethiopia has been sustained and altered by outside forces.

Even the jabbering newsway on the main street of Asmara, though he failed to get all the countries right, knew about the role of international politics in the rebellions here in the province of Eritrea.

"Are you American?" he asked, stopping me on Haile Selassie Ave. "U.S.A.? American number one. America, Israel the best. Russia, Egypt, no good. Give me a quarter."

Straining to say the right thing for a handout, the youngster had somehow caught part of the reality of the rebellion that has festered in Ethiopia for a decade. It is a little secessionist war made bigger and more complex by feuding outsiders and their gifts.

For the rebellious Eritrean Liberation Front and its 2,000 to 5,000 guerrillas, outside help has improved its tactics and weakened its cause.

The rebellion began as a protest by a people chafing under the rule of Emperor Haile Selassie. An Italian colony and a British-administered UN trust territory until 1952, Eritrea resented the emperor's suppression of its political institutions and the new colonization by his Amhara people.

But, during the decade of fighting, the ELF has received most of its support from the Arab world, which has armed and trained the guerrillas. In exchange, the ELF has turned more Muslim in its thinking and its propaganda.

The price may hurt the ELF in the long run. The battleground — Eritrea — is a half-Muslim, half-Christian province of two million people in northern Ethiopia. It makes little sense in a guerrilla war to appeal to only half.

To stress the ELF's outside help, the Ethiopian army likes to show journalists a store room of captured guerrilla weapons.

They include Czech, Russian and Chinese mines; Hungarian blasting caps, Chinese, Czech and Russian grenades, and Russian, Chinese, Bulgarian and Czech automatic rifles. The implication is that these weapons have reached the ELF through the Arab countries.

But the origin of weapons can be meaningless. There is a free market for surplus weapons of all kinds. The store room, in fact, also includes Belgian FN rifles, British Enfield rifles, American rifles, British grenades, Italian mortars, British Bren guns, Belgian rockets and even explosives made by the Hercules Powder Co. of Wilmington, Del.

Most intelligence observers believe that Syria and Iraq do most of the training and arming of the guerrillas. The ELF uses Radio Damascus for its propaganda. Funds also come from the governments of Libya, Saudi Arabia and Kuwait and from Eritreans living in Aden.

Neighboring Sudan may provide a sanctuary for the raiding guerrillas. And there has been talk of "token support" from China and Cuba, but this may be exaggeration by Ethiopian officials trying to induce more help from the United States. For the Ethiopian government, outside help also may have improved its tactics and weakened its cause. For many years, the United States has armed Ethiopia's 40,000-man army, a quarter of which is now assigned to Eritrea. The Israelis train the 4,000 police commandos hunting rebels in the highland canyons and lowland deserts of Eritrea.

Some observers believe this strong outside help has encouraged the Ethiopian government of Emperor Haile Selassie to meet the rebellion with military suppression. The social problems of Eritrea, which generate the grievances that nurture the rebellion, are ignored or treated with contempt by Ethiopian officials.

This could be foolish in the long run.

Since 1953, the United States has given Ethiopia $19 million worth of military assistance. In effect, the assistance has been rent for the use of Asmara as the site for an American communications base.

In the past, there have been teams of U.S. Green Berets assigned to train the Ethiopians in counterinsurgency. According to U.S. army officers, they have all left.

Less is known about the Israeli contribution. As usual, however, the Israelis are probably contributing more manpower than money or material. It is known that they have counterinsurgency advisers working with the Ethiopian soldiers.

The rebels, who want either independence or autonomy for their province, follow the usual guerrilla tactics of hit and run. They mine and blow up trains, railroad tracks, bridges, roads, gas trucks and oil installations.

They hold up buses and trains in the countryside and levy taxes in the villages. Some police patrols have been ambushed and a number of officials have been killed. The Ethiopians say that pro-government Christian villages have been burned.

The ELF also has tried to embarrass the Ethiopian government by a campaign against the state-owned Ethiopian Air Lines. Three prop planes on domestic flights have been hijacked to Aden, Sudan and Libya.

Two jets were damaged by bombs while parked in the airports at Frankfurt and Karachi. And Israeli-trained security men killed two ELF agents trying to hijack one jet on a flight between Madrid and Athens.

Drab Hafez Assad Effective Leader

By WILLIAM TUOHY from Damascus

In the world of colorful Arab political stars, Syria's President Hafez Assad looks, by comparison, rather drab.

When he poses for pictures with Egypt's President Anwar Sadat and Libya's Premier Muammar Khadafi, the mustached, chunky Assad looks ill at ease, almost unsure of himself, as if he doesn't quite know how to handle himself with the better known members of the tripartite federation.

A professional military man, Assad is indeed shy in public and unused to grandstanding before the people in the manner of the best-known Arab leaders.

But for all that, Hafez Assad to date is no less an effective leader. And recently he has taken to traveling around the country to meet local dignitaries, see the people and shake hands.

Most diplomatic observers here believe Assad is trying to turn Syria away from its negativism and xenophobia into playing a more positive role in the middle east.

"We are trying to be constructive," Assad is fond of saying.

Under Assad, tight security conditions inside Syria have been markedly relaxed.

Now in his early 40s, Assad grew up in the hills of northwestern Syria near Latakia, a member of the minority Muslim sect known as the Alawites, whose poor families have tended to send their sons into the military as a career.

Thus, the Alawites control the all-important Syrian armed forces.

In the military, Assad joined the air force, won his wings, and also became a member of the Syrian Baath (Renaissance) party. He rose rapidly becoming a general officer.

After the 1966 coup, one of the many since 1949, Assad received command of the air force, thus becoming one of the ruling junta.

Assad, however, remained a practical minded, less ideologically minded than his chief rival, Maj. Gen. Salah Jadid, a fellow Alawite, who became secretary general of the Baath party.

Jadid and ex-president Nouruddin Attassi tended to be doctrinaire socialist ideologues on economic matters, observers say, and relatively unrealistic in military matters.

The split between Assad and his opponents grew and was brought to a head by the Attassi-Jadid insistence on the ill-fated Syrian intervention in last September's Jordanian civil war between the Bedouin army and the Palestine guerrillas.

In the political infighting that followed, Gen. Assad won out; Attassi resigned, Jadid was retired, and this spring

Assad ran for the presidency and was elected in a referendum with 99 per cent of the vote.

Assad lives simply. He doesn't drink and smokes only Syrian-made cigarettes. Only recently has he allowed pictures of his wife and five children to be taken. As an Alawite, he says: "I believe in God and in the spiritual heritage of our nation."

Assad's term runs for seven years as president of Syria, a beautifully scenic country of six million people.

For years, Syria has been an outsider even among the Arab nations of the Middle East. The Damascus regime conducted feuds with Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Morocco.

Lately, Assad has been trying to patch his fences in the Arab world, and this is one of the chief factors that impelled him to join the federation with powerful Egypt and rich Libya.

He is reportedly anxious to repair relations with Jordan, which were recently ruptured because of the continuing friction between King Hussein and the Palestinian guerrillas.

And diplomatic sources here say that Assad would like to become less dependent on the Soviet Union for economic and military aid.

Welsh a Puzzling Lot

By VIVIAN CRADDOCK WILLIAMS from Cardiff, Wales

Some of the people of Wales — part of the United Kingdom for some four centuries — are sufficiently keen on the idea of making Cardiff the capital of a sovereign, independent state, that they are going to some lengths to make their views known.

In the past five years, Welsh militant nationalists have waved leaflets, thrown bombs, painted statues the Welsh national color (red, green and white), interrupted court proceedings, broken into the House of Commons in London and most recently — begun to change English-language road signs into Welsh. (Example: Danger: Road Works Ahead became Perygl: Gwaith Ar Yr Heol.)

Two of the militant nationalists, tragically young, managed to blow themselves up while fusing explosives a year or so ago, and after that there was diminished interest in explosives among the officers and ranks of the Free Wales Army, the most desperate expression of Welsh nationalism yet.

The "army" has more glamor than fire-power, for while its commander-in-chief, "General" Cayon Evans, has spoken of his well-trained army of 2,000 Celts, at no parade has he been able to muster more than a dozen men.

But it would be wrong to dismiss any cause because of the violence of its exponents, and the Free Wales Army is not alone in passionately crusading for an independent Wales.

No one has actually counted how many Welsh regard their national identity as something worth fighting for, but the census figures show that 26 per cent of the population (numbering nearly three million) speak Welsh as a language, and over one per cent speak only Welsh.

The English claim that the percentage of Welsh speakers is declining overlooks the fact that you do not have to speak Welsh to feel Welsh. It may be more pertinent to note that Plaid Cymru, the nationalist political party, has raised its membership from 15,000 to 45,000 in the past five years. It also is about to launch its monthly magazine, Welsh Nation, and a weekly, and breathes hopes of Welsh independence by 1973.

But, Welsh fervor, which has not rival in exuberance anywhere north of Salerno, is being frustrated by the cold reason of English practicalities emanating from London.

The party lost its only member of parliament in the general elections in June last year, and can claim to be second party in only six out of 36

Welsh constituencies returning members to Westminster.

The Labor government when in power a year ago made some concessionary noises, setting up a committee of inquiry into the constitutional relationship of the very different parts of the United Kingdom with each other. But Harold Wilson, then prime minister, now leader of the opposition, has always said he opposed the Balkanization of Britain.

Likewise, the Conservative Party now in power is categorically averse to any slacking of the bonds of sovereignty so painfully sewn together. The government of Edward Heath surprised some party stalwarts and delighted Wales by allocating responsibility for education and agriculture to the Welsh office, but its basic message to Welsh militants is that Wales gets $200 million a year from the English taxpayer — more than Wales could ever raise in taxes alone, and if it were conceivable that Wales could be independent, it would still need a significant subsidy from its rich neighbor to keep its services going.

Meanwhile, the British government in Whitehall is resolved to contain expressions of Welsh nationalism.

Lawlessness has increased this year, the police in Wales have found, Scotland Yard, the home-base in Whitehall of Britain's criminal investigation department, has sent down a special superintendent to keep an eye on all political extremists working for an independent Wales.

Various plots have been unearthed that were laid to ruffle Whitehall, ranging in desperation from the arming of United Scottish, Irish and Welsh militants in a concerted Celtic bid to ruffle Whitehall once and for all, to the latest escapade of rewriting road signs.

In one case where six Welsh nationalists aged 23 to 30 were tried for tampering with road signs the judge took a lenient view of the culprits. He noted the minority rights and freedom of speech were precious assets in a pluralistic society, but said he had been shocked by the display of "blind intolerance, intellectual arrogance, studied insolence, and black hatred" they had displayed during the course of the trial.

The six were sentenced to a year's suspended imprisonment, which means they stay free as long as they behave themselves. As they left the court, they were heard to shout, "forward to a free Wales! Forward to the revolution!"

PROVINCIAL COURT

A 33-year-old Nanose Bay man was given a suspended sentence in Victoria Provincial Court Monday and placed on one year probation for fraud in connection with a welfare application.

The accused, Mel Kametang, 33, had pleaded not guilty to the charge Aug. 11 and was remanded to Monday for trial. At his remand appearance, before Judge William Ostler, he changed his plea to guilty.

The charge involved the accused signing an application for welfare at the Victoria Welfare Department last May and declaring he had no income when in fact he was in receipt of $95 from the Vancouver welfare office for the same month.

Court was told Kametang received $87 from Victoria's welfare office.

Defence counsel for the accused told court before sentence that his client is neurotic, took heavy doses of prescribed drugs before the offence was committed, has no criminal record and shows potential for rehabilitation.

Warren Ernest Brownridge, 22, of 440 Fraser, Esquimalt, was remanded to Sept. 2 for a pre-sentence report and sentence after he elected trial by magistrate and pleaded guilty to an Esquimalt charge of unlawfully and indecently assaulting a young boy.

After the guilty plea, an Esquimalt policeman testified that on Sunday afternoon near Anson Crescent, Esquimalt, Brownridge "lured (the boy), age seven, into some bushes nearby on the pretext he would show him a secret fort but prior to this the child would have to strip which the child did."

The policeman told court the indecent assault then occurred and Brownridge was apprehended shortly afterward by three men and was turned over to police.

He said the accused readily admitted the offence, told police he has suffered such problems since he was 17, was very co-operative and told police he felt he required treatment.

Peter Wendell Shaw, 25, of 1590 Verling, Central Saanich, was remanded to next Tuesday for plea on a Victoria charge involving a count of robbery and a count of indecent assault. Both offences are alleged to have occurred on or about Saturday.

The counts allege Shaw, on or about Saturday:

• Stole money and food from a deliveryman and at the same time used threats of violence against the deliveryman.

• Indecently assaulted the deliveryman.

Claiming the offences were of "a most aggravated sort," prosecutor John Macintyre suggested $10,000 bail. Bail was set for $7,000 for both counts.

Edward George Gorse, 18, of 128 Brooke, was remanded to today for sentence after he pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of breaking and entering and theft. Court was told Gorse, early Saturday, entered Gibsons Bowladrome, 914 Yates, through an insecure door, forced open five vending machines, and stole roughly $80 in quarters.

David Wayne Tudor, 21, of 335 Niagara, was remanded to Friday for plea on a Sunday Victoria charge of possession of a narcotic (marijuana). Bail was set at $500.

Brian Alexander Ross Shaw, 19, of 308 Oswego, was remanded to Monday for plea on a Friday charge of possession of a narcotic (marijuana). Bail was set at $500.

Etienne Patriot Leblanc, 61, of 332 Lancaster Crescent, was fined $250 after he pleaded guilty to a Victoria charge of theft of a $1.97 pipe tubing cutter from The Bay, 1701 Douglas.

Court was told Leblanc was apprehended outside the store and had $1.86 on his person.

Man Ordered To Seattle Under Escort

Lawrence Corman, escorted by Canadian Pacific officials, went back to Seattle Monday night aboard the CP ferry Princess Marguerite.

Immigration officials in Victoria told the Colonist in an interview Monday that Corman, 23, from San Francisco, was placed by the immigration department into the custody of Canadian Pacific.

They explained the company was given the responsibility to deliver Corman to Seattle from Victoria.

The American, who officials said was seeking "political asylum," vaulted over the side of the Princess Marguerite from Seattle Sunday in a second bid to enter the country illegally.

He jumped over the rail when the ship passed within several hundred feet of the tip of Clover Point at 12:15 p.m. Sunday. A marine radio call was issued to all craft in the area and he was picked up by an American pleasure craft within 15 minutes, brought to Victoria and treated for exposure in St. Joseph's Hospital.

Immigration officials said Corman has a 4-F draft exemption and was seeking asylum in Canada as an opponent of the United States' political system.

Corman was deported a month ago from Vancouver after he illegally crossed through woods near Peace Arch Park on the border between Douglas, B.C., and Blaine, Wash.

Immigration officials said that after an inquiry Monday, the man was ordered back to Seattle on Monday night's ferry. He will return to Victoria for a Sept. 14 hearing with counsel.

Ship Alert Stops The Music

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuter) — The liner Empress of Canada arrived here from Montreal two hours late Monday because of a fire alert which brought passengers on deck in life jackets.

The alarm sounded aboard the Canadian Pacific liner as passengers dined in the ballroom Sunday night while the ship was heading across the Irish Sea.

Passengers donned life jackets while Captain Richard Wallgate radioed nearby ships. But the fire in a boiler was put out by the crew within 10 minutes.

One of the passengers called on deck was a stow away, 35-year-old Peter Richter, from West Germany. He had given himself up in Montreal after the outwards voyage and was being shipped back here.

NARAMATA, B.C. was issued by President the opening session of the Federation conference.

Robertson, said the federation must organize its goals in reaction to last year's provincial legislation which rule out automatic membership in the BCTF and left the federation with a recruitment problem.

The legislation left the BCTF as the only teachers organization in Canada without the automatic membership rule.

A federation spokesman said the former membership of some 23,000 would likely drop to about 90 per cent that number but a membership total would not be known until some time in October.

Robertson said it is time to identify one unifying federation objective, derived from local presidents planning to raise the standards of the profession.

There was some unity no he said, with the three major groups of the BCTF meeting at the same time at the same location.

Vouchers Alert Sounded

Snoke RCMP Monday warned all Marine Product retailers on the west coast to be on lookout for marine gas vouchers stolen sometime last week from Nelson Brothers Fisheries K-5 floating camp at Port Renfrew.

Vouchers taken in the theft, RCMP spokesmen told the Colonist, are worth a total of $1,200 if cashed. They said the vouchers were taken from a fish scow in the area.

RCMP identified the serial numbers of the $100 booklets of vouchers as F07632 and F07633 to F07640 inclusive. Serial numbers of the $50 booklets, RCMP said, are F06265 to F06270 inclusive.

Seven Firms Present Nursing Home Plans

Seven firms have submitted proposals for design and construction of one or more of the four proposed government nursing homes for major B.C. centres.

Health Minister Ralph Loffmark said he hoped the government would be in a position shortly to announce whether one or more of the proposals received for the 150-bed personal care homes are acceptable.

The proposals, opened by Public Works Minister William Chant in Loffmark's office, were referred to a special advisory committee for study. The committee is made up of a representative of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, one from public health, two from public works and one from the department of rehabilitation.

Loffmark told representatives of the companies who submitted proposals the government was considering some form of grant to cover at least a portion of the costs incurred by unsuccessful bidders.

He said the detailed nature of the package bids indicates that the firms spent a great deal of time and effort on their proposals, adding — "I want to assure you the government is aware of the costs involved."

However, Loffmark said, the extent to which unsuccessful bidders might be compensated hasn't yet been determined.

No total prices were made public as proposals were opened Monday afternoon. Loffmark said they would be made public when the government's decision, to either go ahead or call for new proposals, was announced.

George Wheaton Ltd., of Victoria, submitted a proposal for design and construction of the personal care home which is to be built in Victoria. C. J. Oliver submitted a similar single proposal for the Burnaby home.

The other five bidders for design and construction quoted on all four homes — one in Victoria, two in Greater Vancouver, and one in Kamloops. The personal care homes are to be used initially for welfare patients only.

They are: Turnkey-Conspecto Ltd., Vancouver; Gower Young Associates, structural engineers, New Westminster; Imperial Development Ltd., Vancouver; Fabtec Structures Ltd., North Vancouver; and Cascade Development Corporation, Calgary.

Teachers Hear Unity Call

NARAMATA, B.C. (CP)—A firm call to unity was issued by President Adam Robertson Monday at the opening session of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation conference.

Robertson, said the federation must organize its goals in reaction to last year's provincial legislation which ruled out automatic membership in the BCTF and left the federation with a recruitment problem.

The legislation left the BCTF as the only teachers' organization in Canada without the automatic membership rule.

A federation spokesman said the former membership of some 23,000 would likely drop to about 90 per cent of that number but a membership total would not be known until some time in October.

Robertson said it is time to identify one unifying federation objective, derived from local presidents planning to raise the standards of the profession.

There was some unity now, he said, with the three main groups of the BCTF meeting at the same time at the same location.

The groups are: presidents of all locals, learning conditions chairmen and agreements chairmen. In previous years the groups met at different locations.

This total group, said Robertson, would eliminate boundary differences between locals and prevent polarization of committee and local viewpoints.

He said the unit provided an avenue for "everyone to see at once" and was a way for all to act in the interest of the total group rather than perhaps follow individual temptation to go his own way.

During the week, suggested Robertson, the conference would explore long-term action to supply "union security."

He said there are two courses open to the conference: agency shop (not closed) — based on successful negotiations with school boards — or restoration of automatic membership, through representation to government.

Jobs don't grow on trees. They grow from the initiative and enterprise of the private sector. That's a plain fact of economic life. And here's another one. The most promising growth opportunity in a decade is staring you right in the face. Right now. If you're ambitious to grow along with Canada, this is the time to start.

In the past year, we've contained inflation more successfully than any other country with a free economy. Economists (both inside and outside the Government) are predicting that Canada is at the beginning of a new period of growth. Things are moving. Companies are expanding. Opportunities are opening up. But we can do much better still. This is no time for undue pessimism; no time for sitting back and waiting to see what happens. Now (while the growing is good) is a time for building and expanding into new markets and new product areas.

There are thousands of skilled people ready and anxious to help you build your business — and Canada Manpower Centres are just as ready to help you find them. If necessary, they can arrange the training of people you need, and help them relocate to wherever you need them for more productive employment.

Canada Manpower economists and researchers are ready to help in their own field, too — with analyses of market potential in every part of the country, with detailed reports covering the probable effects of technological change in your industry and in your company — with whatever facts and figures you need to take advantage of existing opportunities and to create new ones.

Just how far and how fast Canada will grow in the next few years is very much for you to decide. The stimulus must come from your energy, your enterprise and your confidence in the future of this country. We're ready to grow when you are.

The forecast is favourable. The people are available. And the Government has plans to help with all kinds of business expansion programmes.

Four Policemen Cleared of Assault

REGINA (CP) — Charges were dismissed Monday against four of five city police constables charged with assault in the arrest of Louis Chant, 28, of Regina following a high speed chase July 11 in which two bullets were fired into the speeding car.

Judge W. L. Hipperson said in provincial magistrate's court there was insufficient evidence for the charges against the constables, Wayne Mahar, Raymond Hoffman, Kenneth Collins and Edward Pearson.

Hipperson ordered the trial of Constable Donald McKay to proceed.

Earlier Monday, Lance Cunneil of Regina had told court he arrived at the scene where a car was stopped at a dead end street to find about eight police cars around it. Chant was led away shortly after his arrival, and Chant's face was bleeding.

Cunneil said he viewed the stopped car and found blood outside near the driver's door, on the ground and on the hood of the car.

Hewitt Helmsing of Regina told court he heard sirens and shots while working in his office near the downtown area and had followed the sounds to the stopped, unlicensed vehicle.

He told court that at one point he saw a police constable push a handcuffed man, grab the man's shirt, tussle him and strike him over the head.

Helmsing said this policeman left and another arrived who sat in the back seat of a police car with the handcuffed man. There was a bit more commotion in the back seat and the car left.

The trial continues.

Victoria Loses Sewage Contract

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — City council has voted 4 to 3 to award Associated Engineers Ltd. of Vancouver a contract to develop a $2-million primary sewage plant here. Associated's proposal was chosen over one by Willis, Cuthbert, Tait and Co. of Victoria of a secondary treatment plant for $1.9 million because council feared higher operating costs.

Repair Costs $70,000

Sea Sewer

Outfall

In Use Today

Macaulay Point deepsea outfall will go into operation today without the final 200 feet of diffuser pipe which broke off late last year.

Capital Regional Board chairman Hugh Curtis ordered the move although it will be another six weeks or so before the diffuser can be repaired.

Replacement of the pipe, reported to be lying on the ocean floor not far from the breaking point, is expected to be completed by mid-October.

Cost of the repair job has been estimated at around $70,000 with the cost chargeable under terms of the original contract to the contractor or his bonding company.

Legal Suit

Until today, sewage collected in the system has been discharged a few feet offshore.

The new outfall, even without the final length of pipe, will put sewage 5,900 feet offshore under 200 feet of water.

Several legal suits have been instituted since the break in the diffuser pipe was discovered and it is expected to take 18 months to two years before judgments are handed down.

Minor Repairs

Curtis said Monday that it was inconceivable that a $7.5 million trunk sewer, a sophisticated pumping system and 5,900 feet of a 6,100 foot deep sea outfall should lie idle for that period of time when, legally the regional board could use the system as it was.

"The old Macaulay Point outfall, built in 1913, discharged one million gallons of sewage a day almost immediately on to the beach," Curtis said. "It would be ridiculous to permit that condition to continue when we can, within the terms of our original pollution control permit, use the full existing 5,900 foot outfall while awaiting what are, after all, relatively minor repairs.

The original permit, issued on April 28, 1969 called for an outfall of not less than 4,900 feet in length.

It is expected that when the new line goes into action it will discharge about 2,740,000 gallons of sewage daily, collected from some nine miles of sewers in Esquimalt, part of Victoria and much of southern Saanich.

The outfall is designed to take, by the year 2015, an ultimate flow of about 24 million imperial gallons a day.

Two Reasons

Curtis said there were two reasons why he had not ordered the outfall into use earlier.

"With so much complicated litigation before the courts we had to make absolutely sure that we were doing nothing that might harm the regional district's case when the matter finally comes up for hearing and judgment.

"Secondly we had to be sure that all upstream trunks, pump stations and other facilities were functioning properly and efficiently before ordering the entire system brought into use."

'Pisces' Needed

Curtis said the 200-foot section of the 500-foot diffuser could not be replaced before mid-October because the miniature submarine Pisces is needed for the job.

It is at present in Scotland on a recovery project and is due back on the west coast by the end of September. Meanwhile replacement pipe has been ordered and necessary equipment is being readied.

The 500-foot diffuser is a tapering pipe with portholes in its side for the discharge of effluent over a wide area rather than entirely through the end of the outfall.

An official opening ceremony is being planned for the pipe within a month of today's turn-on.

Curtis said he feels it will be fitting to recognize the work done over the past seven years, much of it by people no longer active in politics.

"Here's the low-cost way to save money on tires."

"What do you figure it would cost to replace your front tires? Forty dollars? Fifty? Maybe more? Well, that's how much you could save yourself by coming in for this $5.88 wheel alignment.

"You see, when your front wheels are out of alignment, the tire tread will be scuffed off in uneven patches. There may be plenty of miles left in the cord body and in some parts of the tread. But if you've got bald patches caused by poor wheel alignment, the tires have to be scrapped.

"Protecting your tires isn't the only reason to come in for a wheel alignment. Your car will ride better. And handle better too.

"Who needs a wheel alignment? Everybody does, at one time or another. Because as time goes by, normal driving conditions put the front wheels out of true.

"Since correct wheel alignment is so important to you, it is also very important who looks after it for you. I think it makes sense to see the Riding System specialists at Firestone. We concentrate on this part of your car. Brakes. Shocks. Balancing. Alignment. And tires, of course.

"As tire people, we have a very special reason to be concerned about your wheel alignment. We hate to see tires wear out before their time. Even if they're not ours."

An Alberta doctor has landed a 49.11-pound tye on a bucktail fly—the biggest salmon to be weighed-in at Bates Beach, midway between Courtenay and Campbell River, within recent memory.

Dr. Norris Gibson, of Okotoks, Alta., was fishing fairly close to shore, with no weight and a bucktail fly when the big one hit Friday morning. It towed his boat 900 yards into the Strait before he was able to tire it and then he realized he didn't have a gaff or a landing net. He had to play it until it was tired out and then ease it close to the boat where he was able to get his fingers under its gills to lift it into the boat.

Bates Beach has been really hot for coho but the hefty tye was quite a surprise.

'I Ran Like Rabbit' Masked Bandit Bears Down On Manager

Patrick Hungenberg said Monday he ran like a rabbit from a bandit who looked like a bear. The result was both good and bad. Hungenberg saved the Tally-Ho Travelodge about $4,000. But in so doing he tore ligaments in his right ankle.

Hungenberg, 40, has been manager since May of the Tally-Ho at 3500 Douglas. He said he was preparing to get in his car in the parking lot about 10 a.m. with the bank deposit when a small car pulled up nearby. A man wearing a silk stocking mask and multi-colored toque jumped from the car and came at him, he said.

Hungenberg grabbed the sack containing the deposit — approximately $4,000 — and headed for the motel.

Constable Involved in Crash

'Officers Excited'

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — RCMP officers investigating a fatal Boeing Day car crash became excited and a little nervous when they discovered a fellow officer was involved, an inquest jury was told Monday.

Gordon Robson, who runs an answering service in Haney, said he was monitoring the police radio for reports of an armed robbery when he heard a report of a traffic accident in the Fraser Valley community.

"In my own opinion the RCMP, when they discovered that a fellow constable was involved, did behave more excitedly, more interested and a little more nervous about the situation," he said.

"There was a little bit of confusion on the air."

Robson was testifying at the second inquest into the two-car crash in which Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson and three of their children were killed while driving around looking at Christmas lights.

Robson said he was listening to the police calls when "someone reported there had been an accident."

After three to five minutes after that he heard a transmission that Constable Orville Nickel was involved in the collision. Nickel, off-duty, was with a girl friend when the accident occurred.

A few minutes later there was a request for an ambulance and in another five minutes a call for an inhalator.

Robson said about half an hour after the accident he heard one of the police cars at the scene asking for the Haney coroner, who was a customer of his answering service.

"In anticipation of the call from the police, I called the coroner and advised him of the accident."

"I kept waiting for it (the police call) and waiting for it. The call finally came about eight to 10 minutes later," he said.

The jury spent the morning visiting the accident scene. The inquest continues.

Interpretation of Act

Litter Case Awaiting Decision in Victoria

NANAIMO — A Nanaimo test case involving interpretation of the 1970 provincial Litter Act was stayed in Nanaimo Provincial Court Monday until there has been a final outcome in a Victoria test case on the similar charge.

Prosecutor John Horn explained outside of court he had withdrawn the charge on instructions from the attorney-general's department with the intention to lay it again later if the result of the Victoria case warranted it.

The Nanaimo charge was against the Canada Safeway store at Harbor Park Shopping Centre in Nanaimo, and involved the refunding of money on soft drink cans returned to the store.

A similar charge against a Victoria Safeway store was dismissed last week in Victoria Provincial Court by Judge William Oster on the grounds that the provisions of the act were not explicit enough on the matter of whether a store must offer refunds or whether it may send customers to a separate depot to receive them.

The crown has not yet decided whether it will appeal Oster's ruling.

Horn said that when he learned of Oster's decision, he asked the attorney-general's department if he should not stay the case until it was decided whether or not there would be an appeal and if there was, until it was heard. The department agreed.

"It seemed pointless to have two test cases concerning the interpretation of the same act going on at once," Horn said.

The Nanaimo charge was laid June 29 by a former Nanaimo alderman, John Hancock.

Judge in the Nanaimo case was Stanley Wardill. Don Cunliffe appeared as counsel for Safeway.

Heavy Bombers Take Red Toll

SAIGON (AP) — United States B-52 bombers were credited Monday with their first big kill in their intensified bombing campaign along South Vietnam's northern frontier.

South Vietnamese infantrymen on a scouting mission reported finding bodies of 76 North Vietnamese soldiers in one of the target areas of B-52 strikes about 15 miles south of the so-called demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

The big bombers stepped up their pounding south of the zone in an effort to blunt North Vietnamese attacks that began 12 days ago.

The heavy raids appeared to be having at least some effect in slowing North Vietnamese ground attacks although shelling of U.S. and South Vietnamese forward bases continued.

In one of a handful of small encounters elsewhere in South Vietnam, South Vietnamese infantrymen ambushed a communist command unit in the central highlands Sunday and killed 17 while sustaining two men wounded, the Saigon command reported.

Concorde Goes Latin

PARIS (UPI) — The French-built prototype of the Anglo-French Concorde Supersonic Transport (SST) will cross the Atlantic Ocean for the first time Sept. 4, to begin an 11-day demonstration tour of Latin America, the French aerospace agency announced Monday.

Finance Minister Valéry Giscard, accompanied by the French and British ambassadors to Brazil, will fly aboard Concorde 001 from Rio de Janeiro to Sao Paulo on Sept. 8, the agency said.

The sleek, drooped-nosed, delta-winged Concorde, designed to carry between 120-140 passengers at mach 2 speeds (1,410 miles per hour) at 60,000 feet, is scheduled to go into commercial service in 1974.

GULF HURRY AWARD WINNER

Another Gulf Hurry Award Winner's name was released today by the Hurry Award Selection Committee.

David "Turk" Warren, pride of the West Coast, has been added to that ever swelling list of men who have been recognized for giving Canadian drivers Hurry Service above and beyond the call of duty.

In reading the citation, a Hurry Awards spokesman noted the shortness of Mr. Warren's legs and the 35 yard sprint required to cover the distance from his station to the pump island. "Moving 225 lbs. across a distance like that in less than 10 seconds is worth a medal all by itself," he pointed out. The spokesman went on to mention that Mr. Warren's winning of Gulf's Golden Dipstick Trophy for fastest oil check in the West had been a major factor influencing the Committee's decision.

Mr. Warren plans to strive to reach one of the few remaining plateaus left for him to conquer. A place on the Gulf Hurry All Star Team.

"It would make Moon happy," he said.

When you're in a hurry for gas, call in at any Gulf station. The men with the medals are fast!

His successor at Goodwill will be Alec Reid, who has been previously employed by a firm of tax consultants. Reid has public relations experience in working for various movie theatres in Victoria and for the Victoria Symphony.

Freak Storms Kill Two

TORONTO (CP) — Storms which lasted only minutes in most areas of southern Ontario Sunday caused at least two deaths and millions of dollars worth of damage.

An American golfer was struck by lightning at Niagara Falls and a nine-year-old boy died when a falling limb crushed a tent in a provincial park.

Four persons aboard a Cessna 182, bound for Toronto from Mansfield, Ohio, were reported missing Sunday and an extensive search was under way.

The storm front thrashed through tobacco fields west of Hamilton and more than 100-half-insurance adjusters were walking through the fields Monday trying to assess the damage. In many cases, the plants were stripped.

Some orchards in the area reported a 90-percent loss and one owner said peaches, plums and apples were turned into "mush."

An official for the Ontario Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Board, Ted Frytak, estimated damage to tobacco at more than $1 million.

Winds reached 80 miles an hour in the Barrie area and more than an inch of rain fell in 20 minutes.

Pretty face. Nice figure.

A lot of pretty nice girls drive Toyota Corollas. (One out of every three Corollas are bought by women.) We figure it's because women just naturally know a good bargain when they see it. They know how much a gallon of gas costs and how nice it is to go up to 35 miles on one. They know about the optional automatic and 4-speed all synchromesh transmissions. (Even if they don't know what all the synchromesh is about)

They also know that along with every Corolla you get a lot of nice gadgets. Like fully reclining front bucket seats, an electric rear window defroster, Fresh-Flow ventilation, and front disc brakes.

But there's another reason why so many women buy the Corolla. They like the way it looks. And they naturally feel that one pretty face and nice figure deserves another.

And so it does.

In Gun Battle

HAWTHORNE, Calif. (UPI)—Five members of the Charles Manson cult were in custody today and a sixth was being sought following a weekend raid on a gun shop which ended in a gun battle with police.

Three of the suspects, two of them women, were wounded in the gunfight Saturday night in this Los Angeles suburb.

Manson, 36, condemned to death for the seven Tate-Labianca murders and now on trial for the slayings of two other men, said he was arming his cult to prepare for a civil war between blacks and whites.

The five suspects were booked for robbery and attempted murder. Police answered a silent alarm at a surplus store and the suspects opened fire on them, police said. Wounded were Catherine "Gypsy" Share, 28; Mary Brunner, 26, and Lawrence Edward Bailey, 22.

Also arrested were Kenneth Como, 31, and Dennis Rice, 29, both of whom have figured in previous incidents involving the "Manson family." Police identified the suspect who escaped as Charles Lovett, also a member of the cult.

Berlin Doors Open

Colonist-Los Angeles Times Service
BERLIN — A Berlin agreement which would end 26 years harassment of the city by the Soviet bloc and open the way to a new era of east-west relations in Europe was completed Monday by the ambassadors of the four victorious powers of the Second World War.

The text of the agreement will not be released until it has been finally approved by the four governments, perhaps in another three or four weeks. There are also further negotiations to be completed between West and East Germany on specific arrangements for the flow of German civilian railroad and water traffic in and out of the city.

But the status of Berlin is now secure — its ties to West Germany, its free political life, and the freedom of movement of its people and products.

Successful conclusion of the 17-month negotiations also clears the way for West German Chancellor Willy Brandt to submit his friendship treaties with Russia and Poland to the West German parliament for early ratification, and makes a European security conference in the coming year a virtual certainty.

In the longer run the agreement also means that both East and West Germany will eventually take seats in the United Nations.

In the broad historic sense, the agreement writes final to the old cold war tactics in Europe and marks a diplomatic and legal acceptance of the status of Free Berlin.

After all the turmoil and upheaval which the Berlin problem has caused in the last 26 years, the moment of success in the negotiations had about as much drama as a suburban bridge game. The big four ambassadors — Kenneth Rush of the United States, Sir Roger Jackling of Great Britain, Jean Sauvagnargues of France and Pyotr Abramov of the Soviet Union — gathered at Russia's official residence in the fashionable Dahlem section of West Berlin Monday morning.

Nixon's Beach Threatened

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (LAT) — Oil spilled by a navy tanker spread along 30 miles of the Southern California coast from Dana Point to south of Oceanside Monday, smearing some beaches with black blotches.

Globes of oil speckled a 1 1/4 mile section from Dana Point to Capistrano Beach.

The beach used by President Nixon during his stay at the Western White House in San Clemente was also threatened, but a U.S. Coast Guard spokesman said no oil had yet fouled the sands in that area.

The slick, described by the navy as 30 miles long and 50 to 100 yards wide, stemmed from a spill Friday by the USS Manatee, a fleet oiler, as it was refueling the aircraft carrier USS Ticonderoga, off the coast, a navy spokesman said. The spokesman blamed the spillage of an unknown amount of oil on "human error."

Earlier the navy had denied that the Ticonderoga was involved. The navy rushed 2,000 feet of portable floating booms to string across the Oceanside yacht harbor to prevent the oil from washing into it.

U.S. Investment 'Raises Standards'

MONTREAL (CP) — Professor Harry Johnson of the University of Chicago said Monday the effect of foreign investment in Canada "has been to increase standards of living steadily and vastly."

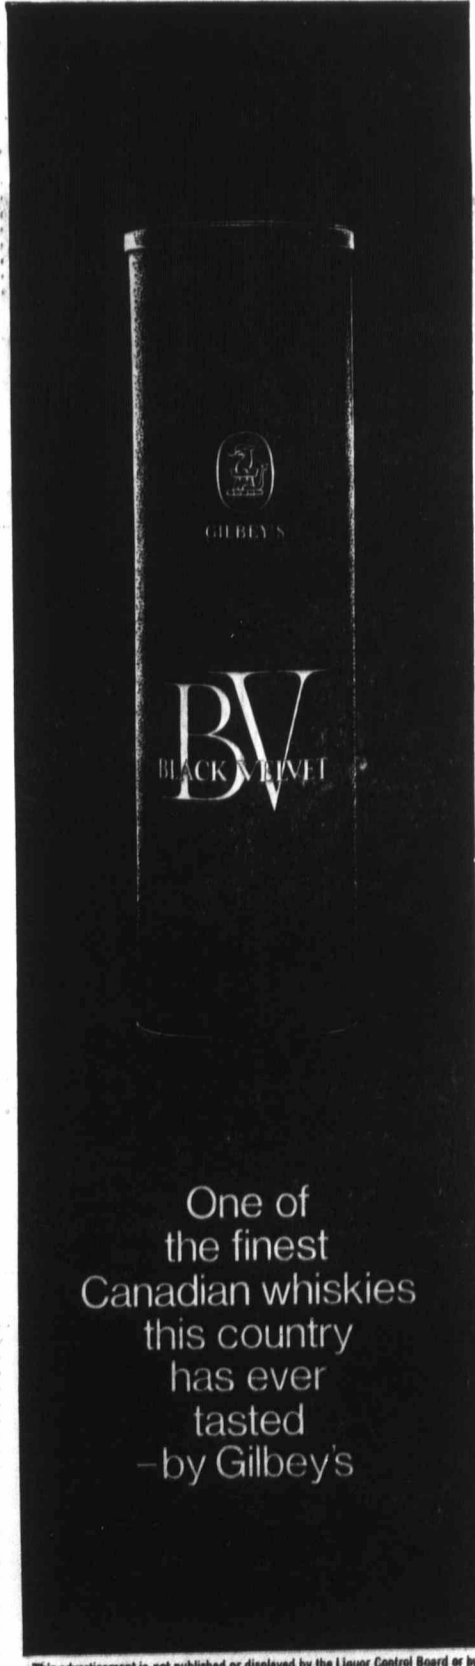

Speaking to 150 professionals from Canada and abroad at the International Conference on Nationalism and the Multi-National Enterprise at McGill University, the Toronto-born economics professor said:

"The remedy for monopolistic market organization is a good anti-trust law and a low tariff, not the exclusion or su-provision of foreign corporate competitors in the domestic market."

In an earlier session, Revenue Minister Herb Gray said there are enough benefits from foreign investment in Canada, at least in some industries, to justify its continued growth.

SASKATOON — No one was able to catch Winnipeg's W. Homenik in the final round of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association tournament on Sunday but two former Victorians were among his three closest pursuers.

Homenik, a 33-year-old veteran who won him $5,000, staggered a bit with last-round 73 but he had staged Sunday with a five-stroke lead and his 73-hole total 273 was good enough for two-stroke victory.

Homenuik Wins CPGA Tourney Wakeham, Munn Share Third Spot

SASKATOON — No one was able to catch Winnipeg's Will Homenuik in the final round of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association tournament on Sunday but two former Victorians were among his three closest pursuers.

Homenuik, a 35-year-old veteran who won himself $5,000, staggered a bit with a last-round 73 but he had started Sunday with a five-stroke lead and his 72-hole total of 273 was good enough for a two-stroke victory.

Closest to him at the finish was Gary Slater of Burlington, Ont., who passed former-Victorian Dick Munn and Bill Wakeham by shooting a 67. Slater had five birdies and an eagle, the latter on the 495-yard 16th hole, in his fine round.

Munn, professional at Vancouver's Point Grey club, started the final round closest to Homenuik but could do no better than a two-over-par 72 on his last round over the 6311-yard Saskatoon Golf and Country Club.

That left him in a three-place tie, at 277, with Wakeham, pro at Duncan's Cowichan club. Wakeham, who took a run at the lead Saturday with a 65, finished with 71. Both ex-Victorians earned $2,000.

Vaughan Trapp of Victoria was in a group at 280 which included Mos Norman of Gilford, Ont., Edmonton's Bill Wright and Ken Fulton, former Trail pro now playing out of St. Julie, Que., all won $925.

Homenuik who has won about $19,000 playing the U.S. tournaments this year, now has Canadian tournament earnings of $6,885.

The effort has resulted in his being named to the woman Canadian team for the World Cup competition, scheduled for Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., in November.

His partner will be Norman, who had a disappointing tournament but is the top money-winner on the Canadian tour this year with more than $8,000.

The 1971 CPGA tournament is scheduled for Hull with dates yet to be announced.

Nicklaus Leads Money-Winners After $10,650 Third-Place Finish

PHILADELPHIA — Jack Nicklaus couldn't beat out Tom Weiskopf and Dave Hill but his third-place finish in the $150,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic and the $10,650 it brought has made him the leading money-winner of the year in professional golf.

Nicklaus now has a record $205,563 in tournament earnings this year, a total only he has surpassed — with $211,561 in 1967. The 31-year-old cloutier, top money-winner in 1970, has been in the top five in 10 of the 15 tournaments he has played in this year.

A second-round 73 stopped him here but he finished only two strokes behind Weiskopf by scoring a 67 Sunday for a 276.

Weiskopf started the final round with a three-stroke edge but it seemed that he was to be an also-ran when Hill scored an eagle three on the 17th hole to pull into a tie at 12 under par.

However, Weiskopf followed by also getting an eagle on the 485-yard 17th, just enough to compensate for a finishing bogey and bring him a one-stroke win with his 14-under-par 274.

George Knudson of Toronto, making his best showing in some time, finished with a second successive 69 for 277, fourth place and $7,650 in prize money.

Pete Landers and Bill James, who had a disappointing tournament but is the top money-winner on the Canadian tour

The $30,000 Weiskopf won boosted his total for the year to $96,517 and made him eighth on the money-winning list.

Lee Trevino, who was the leading money-winner until this tournament, didn't play because he is recovering from an appendectomy. His total is $197,219.

Arnold Palmer ($189,674), Gary Player ($119,510), Miller Barber ($108,064), Jerry Heard ($105,078), Bruce Crampton ($99,216), Gene Littler ($94,937) and Dave Eichelberger ($93,505) are the others in the top ten.

Landers was the star Saturday but ran into early trouble Sunday as Edmonton took 6-1 and 7-1 decisions. But Landers was back in top form in the deciding game, in complete charge, in a 10-0 romp.

Landers was taken out in the sixth inning of the first game and didn't last an inning in relief when the Playboys tied the series at 2-2.

The brilliant lefthander allowed just three hits in the last game and was backed by a 12-hit attack which was again led by Harvey Stevenson.

Stevenson, who belted three homers in Saturday's games, hit his fourth homer of the series, giving him seven hits in 12 trips to the plate. Don Lancaster got the only run Landers was to need with a first-inning home run.

Vic Washington Stars for 49ers

Vic Washington, who sukked his way through last season with B.C. Lions of the Canadian Football League while waiting to get free so he could sign with San Francisco Giants, appears to have won himself a National Football League job.

Looking as if he belonged right from the start of training camp, Washington almost certainly clinched a spot on the 49ers roster when he made fine touchdown runs of 13 and 10 yards on Sunday to help his club defeat San Diego Chargers, 28-17.

In other Sunday games, Buffalo Bills handed a 28-16 defeat to New England Patriots, New York Jets were 27-14 winners over New York Giants and Detroit Lions edged Baltimore Colts, 23-20.

Bill Munson's short scoring pass to Larry Walton with 18 seconds remaining gave Lions their win before 91,745 fans in the University of Michigan Stadium in Ann Arbor. Munson and Walton also combined for an earlier touchdown.

TWO FOR O.J.
Dennis Shaw passed to O. J. Simpson for two touchdowns in the Buffalo victory and Al Woodall took over from injured Joe Namath to lead the Jets past the Giants.

M.V. Chesnut For Tiny Plots

Seems to me that some of the cleverest gardeners in and around Victoria are those who work a tiny plot in the heart of the town.

The man with rolling acres can plant pretty well anything he wants but in a restricted bit of ground, every prospective occupant must be studied and pondered over.

Will it get too tall and overshadow its neighbours? Will it spread too much? Does it remain in bloom long enough to pay the rent for the precious space it occupies?

With this in mind, I would like to suggest some hardy herbaceous perennials suitable for a tiny border, chosen not only for their compact habit but also for their long season of bloom and their generosity with their flowers.

A "must" in this category is the golden Crocus grandiflora, and particularly the variety Sunburst. Its first garden flowers appear before the end of June, and the plant is never without bloom until well in to October, carried on a slender, graceful plant that needs no staking and never gets blown over.

There is an Evening Primrose, not too easy to come by, called Oenothera tetragona, and this one too gives an uninterrupted three months of bloom.

During the entire summer it is covered with flat trusses of golden yellow, cup-shaped flowers, with the reddish-brown stems and bright green leaves making a fine background for the gold-blossoms.

Another beautifully compact plant is Stokesia laevis, which at first glance might be taken for a giant China aster in a clear blue shade. Standing 12 to 18 inches tall, it flowers extravagantly throughout the summer and autumn and is almost never bothered by insects.

The true geraniums (not pelargoniums) contribute several kinds which qualify for our tiny perennial border, and in particular I like Geranium endressii and its varieties, with flowers in several shades of pink and salmon, blooming almost all summer long.

These plants spread a bit more freely than I would like but this same invasion habit helps keep down the weeds and it is not too hard to keep it within bounds.

The Geums, old favorites of mine, can also pass the test for non-stop bloom and showy tints and I suggest G. boreale, with orange flowers from May to October; Fire Opal, flame scarlet; Lady Stratheden, butter yellow, and Mrs. Bradshaw, dark red. Although the Geums are first cousins to the strawberry, they are not in the least invasive.

The Erigerons are no longer the troublesome plants they once were, with muddy colors and a bad habit of hanging their heads. New kinds of these charming many-petaled daisies are available now which stand as straight as troops on parade.

One of the best is the clear shell-pink Felicity, while Dimity makes a mound of color only nine inches high covered in rose-pink blooms from early June to late August. Dignity is a bit taller, bearing blooms of a deep violet blue.

I wouldn't want to get along without the perennial Scabiosa, for not only does it possess every attribute we seek in a plant for a small garden, but it is unexcelled as a cut flower too.

My old favorite Clive Greaves, bred by the 92-year-old Col. J. H. House, seems to have disappeared from the plant catalogue but I can recommend Floral Charm, Moerheim Blue and Wanda, in different shades of blue.

Art Buchwald Great Non-Stories

There were many great news stories that never made the papers. These were my favorites:

It was a cold winter's night in Secret Falls, when patrolman Sean Morgan was cruising around in his car. Suddenly the radio barked, "Go to 107 Maple Street; a pregnant lady needs help."

Sean turned on his siren and at 80 miles an hour sped to the address. Waiting in front of the house was the nervous husband, who explained his wife was about to have a baby, but he couldn't get his car started and he didn't know what to do.

Sean said he would take the wife in his car, but the husband said it was too late. His wife had started giving birth to the baby in the house.

The patrolman rushed inside and shouted to the husband, "I want hot water, lots of hot water." The husband dashed into the kitchen and started heating up kettles while Sean went into the bedroom, took off his jacket, and rolled up his sleeves.

In a few minutes the husband dashed in with the boiling water.

Sean smiled sickly and didn't say anything.

"Here's the water," the husband said. "What are you going to do with it?"

"How the hell do I know?" Sean said, shrugging his shoulders. "I'm not a doctor."

Charles Weatherpoon hated abstract art and the cult that went with it. When he heard there was going to be an abstract art exhibition he submitted a painting done by a chimpanzee and he waited to see the results.

The day of judging arrived, and a group of distinguished art critics walked down the aisles, studying each painting. Then they came to Weatherpoon's entry. They all stopped and stared and finally the silence was broken by James Corrigan, the greatest abstract-art expert in the United States, who said, "That's the loudest abstract painting by a chimpanzee that I've ever seen."

Major Roy McMullen, Second World War ace, who was shot down in his fighter plane near the end of the war, was stationed in Germany in 1961 as commander of a squadron. One day he was visited by Friedrich Von Ralston, a Luftwaffe fighter pilot who had been appointed liaison officer to Major McMullen's outfit.

The two started exchanging war stories and Von Ralston told of the day he shot down a P-58 over Stuttgart.

"I was shot down over Stuttgart," Major McMullen said, "on November 12, 1944, in a P-58."

"That's the day I shot down the plane," Von Ralston said excitedly. "It was number 345."

"Then you shot me down," Major McMullen said.

"Yah," Von Ralston said, "it was me."

"Why you no good SOB," Major McMullen said, and hit Von Ralston right in the teeth.

Chuck Winthrop, who weighed only 140 pounds, was too light to make the Walla-Walla University football team, but he tried so hard that the coach took pity on him and let him suit up for every game, though he always kept him on the bench.

In the final game of the year against Walla-Walla's archrival, Gazonga Tech, Walla-Walla's first-string quarterback, was injured in the second quarter. In the final quarter, Walla-Walla's second-string quarterback was also injured. Gazonga was leading 6-0.

The coach looked down the bench and his eyes met Chuck's.

"Please, coach," pleaded Chuck. "My parents came 2,000 miles to see me play. Send me in."

The coach shook his head. "You're too light."

"It's my last year. Just let me play for a few minutes," Chuck cried.

The coach got up from the bench and walked over to Chuck. He put his hand on his shoulder and he said, "No, you're too light. We'll finish up the game without a quarterback."

And Walla-Walla did. The final score was still 6-0.

Marilyn Beck in Hollywood

Janet Blair has discovered there's one thing women don't get custody of in divorce settlements: "The people who were your friends!" She and Nick Mayo ended their 20-year-long marriage four months ago, and Janet's had time to learn that. "A few hang on, but most don't want to be involved with trouble. You've suddenly become a fifth wheel in a married crowd, and no one seems to want that." It's also been explained to Janet that she now constitutes a threat to those married ladies. "Can you believe it?"

If it's any reassurance to those former friends of Janet's, she's given that no-interest word to their buddies, at least to those who've offered a shoulder — and much more — for Janet's comfort. Nice guys.

Peggy Lee doesn't allow infirmity to get her down. The singer suffers from such a chronic lung disorder that she must use a special steam breathing apparatus before each singing performance. But you'd never guess it from the pace she keeps.

Even many of the staunchest fans of that film had reservations about the climax love scene between 16-year-old Gary and his 27-year-old leading lady, Jennifer O'Neal. I felt uncomfortable when I watched it. And now I discover Gary and Jennifer felt pretty much that way when they shot it. The appealing-looking youngster has just completed his second film, Way Point for 20th Century-Fox.

Gary's biggest adjustment during North filming seems to have been tolerating the violence he was called upon to take part in. "I don't care for it," said the youngster. "We show chickens getting beheaded, cattle getting skinned. And I had to kill a man. I didn't like it. It felt strange holding a gun in my hand. I'd never held a gun before."

I love this story Orson Welles tells about the time he was explaining the intricacies of ballet to Dean Martin and pointed out the elementary fact that the girls dance on their toes. Which led Dino to ask, "Why don't they just get taller girls?"

Sydney Harris Soft on Crime?

Let's talk about crime today and deal in some hard figures instead of the usual stop prejudice, ignorance and fear.

There are about 450,000 felonies a year booked in the United States.

Of these, about 300,000 are arraigned. And of these, about 50,000 are dropped for various reasons, the largest being the refusal of the complainant to press charges.

Of the remaining 250,000, about 220,000 plead guilty. Only about 30,000 go to trial.

Of these 30,000, roughly 20,000 are convicted, and 10,000 are acquitted.

Of the 240,000 who plead or are judged guilty, about 100,000 go to prison. Only about 12 per cent of all felonies are heard by a jury.

Thus, 96 per cent of those prosecuted for felonies are convicted of something. And nine out of 10 end in guilty pleas.

So where is the "soft on crime"? Where is the "softening of criminals"? In the public's frightened and feverish brain, that's where.

Why do so many defendants plead guilty and forfeit a trial? Because they usually get a reduced charge and a lighter sentence that way.

Why do they get a reduced charge? Because the court calendars are clogged and the time and expense of a jury trial would be prohibitive.

It is not the law that is slippery or the judges who are "too lenient." It is that the whole machinery of justice is under-staffed, under-financed, cumbersome, time-consuming and politically oriented.

Innocence or guilt is not the decisive factor in our system of jurisprudence. Expediency is. How to process the most men in the shortest time at the least expensive with the best-looking record for the prosecutor — that's the name of the game in criminal law.

Under such a system, professional criminals can get away with it time and again; not because of "technicalities" in the law, as the layman mistakenly thinks, or because judges are soft-hearted but because the system itself is unwieldy and so cumbered that the big fish slip through while the little ones are trapped.

If we gave each defendant a jury trial and put all the guilty ones in prison, the whole legal and penological system would grind to a halt. There wouldn't be enough judges, enough courts, or even jails to handle them. Or enough money in the public treasury to support them.

Yet, as I said 96 per cent of all prosecuted felons are convicted of something, including quite a few who aren't guilty — which about makes up for the guilty ones who get away.

Honestly, now, did you know any of this yesterday?

CORSEAUX, Switzerland (UPI) — British film star James Mason, 63, secretly married Australian actress Clarissa Kaye, 39, Friday, Aug. 13, friends said Monday. It was the second marriage for both. An employee at Mason's home said the couple left for Munich last week and was expected back at the end of the week. Mason has lived in this tiny town, a suburb of Vevey on the shores of Lake Geneva, for a number of years. In Sydney, Miss Kaye's mother said the couple planned to make their home in Switzerland. Friends said the couple has been friendly since they worked together on 'Age of Consent', filmed in Australia three years ago. Miss Kaye played Mick Jagger's mother in the Australian production of bushranger Ned Kelly.

Hunt Started For Firebug

Fire department officials are on the lookout for a firebug who set two small fires in the furnace room of an old three-storey building at 903 North Park, early Saturday. An automatic sprinkling system kept the blaze under control until firemen arrived. Deputy chief Carl Coates said Monday the room was filled with smoke when a truck and firemen arrived but the blazes were quickly extinguished.

"Some person or persons unknown entered the building and set the fires. Two small piles of combustible material were used to set the fires on each side of the furnace room," Coates said. Fire department officials said the investigation is continuing.

Bruce Lowther

My holidays from my regular job for the Colonist end Sept. 1 — I do this column on my own time — and I'm happy to say I have stayed away from much of the news since Aug. 6. Except, mainly, for a dream the other night, I dreamed I heard a radio news broadcast which was (a) mine — a narration from Scott Wallace, (b) lacking a knock at the establishment or one at the anti-establishment, (c) filled with facts instead of opinions, (d) interesting.

You know what I'm about to say — I knew before I woke up that this was a dream. However, you may not know that, when I awoke, I counted commercials while ignoring the news. That made me even more depressed, because hair (gunk) and feminine sprays outnumber all their competitors.

So now, I'm ignoring almost all of TV and reading books. Disgraceful.

RUBEN OF USELESS INFORMATION: Saturday's answer — Ending the week of Odd Man Out, Fanny Blankers-Koen, B. B. Mathias, J. P. Owens and Percy Williams all were stars at various Olympics but Wes Santee never made it when it counted.

Today's question starts almost a month of questions about the 1920s. Hemingway called the young people of the 1920s the "lost generation" — identify the most popular U.S. writer of that time who said they "found all gods dead, all faiths were fought, all faiths in men slain."

One, clue: his wife's name was Zelda. His name will be here Wednesday.

5:00 — Bombs Over Burma (1942 Anna May Wong with the war). You never heard of Anna May Wong? She was no accident — 13.
5:30 — Thundering Jets (1958 bore) — 12.
6:30 — The Pad (so-so 1966 modern romance). Brian Bedford, James Farentino, Julie Sommers. Only if you have nothing else to do in your lead — 8.
8:00 — The Sheriff (fairish 1970 black-marshall western). Ossie Davis, Ruby Dee, Ross Martin. Wait a bit — 4.
8:30 — Ransom for a Dead Man (1970 private eye, today's best film). Peter Falk, Lee Grant. Falk will do his clever-dumb act in a series this fall while Grant is an excellent actress — 5.
11:00 — Boss of the Big Town (1942 stinker). John Lital. Tell me a few films which I have seen only so I could tell you — 4, 13.
11:30 — Riders of Vengeance (sub-par 1953 western). Richard Conte, Hugh O'Brien. One of the many films which I recommend as a sure cure for insomnia — 7.
11:45 — Village of the Giants (1965 abomination, today's worst). Tommy Kirk, Gene Bridges. One of the many I won't watch — 6.
11:50 — It's Your Move (1968 dubber, new to me). Edward G. Robinson, Terry Thomas. Might be fair — 2.
1:05 a.m. — You Were Meant for Me (1948 Dan Dailey-Jeanne Crain musical). Back in 1948, the title meant a boy-girl movie, now it means boy-boy or girl-girl or anything but boy-girl — 12.

Tuesday Radio

- 2:30 p.m. — CBC Matinee talks to Kenneth Clark of the Civilization Series — CBU (980).
8:00 — CFL football, B.C. at Calgary — CIVL (900).
8:05 — A profile of William Faulkner — CRU.
9:05 — Gala has music by Mozart, Smetana, Verdi, Haydn and Dvorak — CFMS (98.5).

Winning. When not actually engaged on a case, Sherlock Holmes delighted in gravely listening to Doctor Watson's tales of woe and he usually had some sound, if terse, advice to offer. "Holmes," said the doctor one evening, "this afternoon I was at four hearts and West led the jack of clubs, which held. He continued with the ten, which also held. "Next came the eight of diamonds, which was covered by the nine, ten and ace. It certainly seemed that I had at long last won a rubber, but when I proceeded to lay down the queen of trumps, East unfortunately...

Agreement To Disagree

By DON COLLINS

How do you agree to agree that you have all agreed to something?

Apparently you can't, if you are Canada's provincial municipal affairs ministers.

The ministers met in closed session in Victoria Monday with Robert Andras, minister of state for urban affairs but couldn't come to terms on a communique that was to be released later to the press.

The communique was reportedly going to detail what had been agreed to — and not agreed to — during the first day of meetings that are to wind up Wednesday.

It was understood the ministers had agreed earlier in the day on what should be said in the release. But, when they looked at the finished product, they weren't all ready to put their signatures to it, and there was no release after all.

The disagreement over the

Andras
... in Victoria

agreement took an estimated 2½ hours.

British Columbia's Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell is acting as chairman for the meetings, all to be closed.

Monday was the day to deal with the impact of the new federal department of urban affairs.

It called for reports from two committees. One, headed by Campbell, was to deal with the role of the provinces under the new urban structure. The other, chaired by Ontario's Dalton Bales, was to come up with the format for a conference of officials representing three levels of government.

It was understood that even this ran aground and that any plans for such a conference have to be considered "stalled."

Under the new structure, municipalities are supposedly in line for a more important role — at least where consultation is concerned.

Fancy new terms such as "national consultation" have been created to fit the plan for tri-level togetherness.

INFORMAL CHAT is enjoyed by B.C. Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, and New Brunswick counterpart Jean Paul LeBlanc.—(Barry Cassman)

Fisherman Crashes

Coroner Finds Man Caused Own Death

Stanley Burnish, 53, of 12 Victoria Road, Nanaimo, died after a car crash Aug. 14 as a result of his own negligence and driving at a high rate of speed, Victoria area coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said Monday.

Colwood RCMP reported after the crash that Burnish was alone in his car when he struck a utility pole on Humpback Road near Goldstream Park. Burnish, a fisherman, was dead on arrival at hospital.

St. Jorre said in an interview he found in his inquiry that Burnish died as a result of a ruptured heart and massive internal bleeding. He said no traces of alcohol were found in Burnish's blood.

Chabot Ignores Strike Tactics

Provincial Labor Minister James Chabot said Monday he isn't going to let any "abusive" tactics on the part of the Canadian Union of Public Employees force him to take action in the Sandringham Private Hospital strike.

At the same time, a union spokesman said: "I understand the labor minister is beginning to feel the pressure. We've got news for him. He hasn't seen anything yet."

It was understood Chabot is to get considerable attention in an advertising campaign being launched this week by the union.

In another development, CUPE distributed some 200 posters in Greater Victoria containing a picture of Russell Shepherd of West Vancouver, one of the Sandringham owners.

Chabot rejected the CUPE charge that he is only wringing his hands in despair as the strike of 28 women at Sandringham, 1650 Fort, nears the 11-month mark.

"CUPE can become as abusive as it likes," he said. "But until there is a breakdown in patient care my hands are tyed by the Mediation Act, which is good legislation.

"This is still a free country with no compulsory unionism. I dislike compulsion in any form and I'm not going to force the employers to sign a contract when it is not required by law. I feel the same way about compulsion as it applies to unions.

"There has been collective bargaining in the Sandringham dispute and there is nothing in the law which says a contract must be signed."

The union contends that the owners of Sandringham have made no serious attempt at bargaining. The strike, for a first contract, began Sept. 30.

Defence White Missil May Vanis

OTTAWA (CP) — The paper, to be released today, the dismantling of Canada's clear-equipped Bomarc mis

Defence department officials refused to confirm or deny the speculation, through recent statements by Defence Minister Donald Macdonald have made clear that Canada's role in continental defence will come in for a searching re-examination in the white paper.

The policy document, elaborating on a four-point set of defence priorities laid down by Prime Minister Trudeau two years ago, is expected to place heavy emphasis on coastal surveillance by Canadian ships and aircraft.

The priorities are: protection of sovereignty, continental defence in co-operation with the U.S., NATO, and international peacekeeping under the United Nations.

Since they were announced by Trudeau, Canada has broadened its territorial sea to 12 miles from shore and declared several large ocean areas on the east and west coasts exclusive Canadian fishing zones.

A 100-mile-wide pollution control zone around the Canadian Arctic has also been declared. At the same time, oil drilling off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts has increased.

Macdonald has said the Maritime Command's primary concerns are sovereignty and coastal patrol to protect Canadian offshore interests, as much as the Navy's long-standing anti-submarine role.

However, the white paper is expected to affirm Canada's intention to continue anti-submarine defence under arrangements with NATO and the United States.

The document also is expected to provide for continuing development of the anti-sub hydrofoil prototype Bras d'Or.

Several weeks ago, there were unofficial reports that the hydrofoil program would be scrapped because of its cost and Canada's inability thus far to line up foreign buyers for the vessel.

However, informants say the defence council has since decided to keep the current experimental program going. The project so far has cost $53 million.

The white paper also is believed to provide for a squadron of CF-5 ground support jets to NATO's northern flank in Norway.

Unconfirmed reports said the document itself, or decisions flowing from it, will foresee the end of the heavy tank role for Canadian forces based in Germany.

The white paper is believed to set out arguments against a further reduction in Canada's armed forces — now being run down to 82,000 men from 98,000 two years ago — including the necessity to provide against domestic insurance and to discharge Canadian commitments abroad.

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's defence white paper, to be released today, is reported to envisage the dismantling of Canada's two squadrons of nuclear-equipped Bomarc missiles.

Defence department officials refused to confirm or deny the speculation, though recent statements by Defence Minister Donald Macdonald have made clear that Canada's role in continental defence will come in for a searching re-examination in the white paper.

The policy document, elaborating on a four-point set of defence priorities laid down by Prime Minister Trudeau two years ago, is expected to place heavy emphasis on coastal surveillance by Canadian ships and aircraft.

The priorities are: protection of sovereignty, continental defence in co-operation with the U.S., NATO, and international peacekeeping under the United Nations.

Since they were announced by Trudeau, Canada has broadened its territorial sea to 12 miles from three and declared several large ocean areas on the east and west coasts exclusive Canadian fishing zones.

A 100-mile-wide pollution control zone around the Canadian Arctic has also been declared. At the same time, oil drilling off the Atlantic and Pacific coasts has increased.

Kennedy
Behind
Grits Win

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker charged Saturday night that former United States president John Kennedy assigned one of his top political organizers to the national Liberal party during the election which saw Diefenbaker's downfall.

"He turned over one of his top organizers to the Liberals," Diefenbaker said. "This man operated out of Toronto under an assumed name."

The former Conservative prime minister said Kennedy wanted him to quit selling wheat to China "and told me so."

"I had to point out that Canada was not Massachusetts or even Boston," Diefenbaker said.

This independent attitude, he said, angered Kennedy and led him to work behind the scenes to effect the Diefenbaker government's downfall.

Technique A Failure

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Fire Chief Paul G. doused a fire in his house with a garden hose. Flames flared up again and destroyed copies of a book he wrote titled "The Technique of Fighting."

Bennett Still Optimistic

Premier Bennett said today he is "very optimistic" that B.C. exports to the U.S. will suffer relatively little as a result of the import charge introduced by President Nixon.

"The part of Canada that will be hurt most" by the charge, Bennett said, is manufacturing centres in Ontario and Quebec.

He said as far as pulp and paper exports aren't affected, lumber exports will only be subjected to a charge of $3 a thousand.

The concern shown in Ottawa over the effects of the surcharge, the premier says, shows that B.C. is fighting a common battle between the U.S. and other countries but with shared trading interests.

Meanwhile, Bennett says the B.C. economy is "great headway" in spite of current international economic troubles.

He quoted Dominion Statistics figures showing 891,000 persons gainfully employed in the province in July, 1970, 48,000 more than for the same month in 1970. In the same period the provincial labour force has increased to 950,000.

"In spite of this," he said, "British Columbia had a reduction in unemployment for the period July to July. In July, 1970, the 78,000 unemployed at that time had fallen to 59,000."

"The part of Canada which will be hurt most" by the surcharge, Bennett said, are the manufacturing centres of Ontario and Quebec.

He said as far as B.C. is concerned pulp and paper exports aren't affected and lumber exports will likely only be subjected to a surcharge of $3 a thousand feet.

The concern shown by Ottawa over the effects of the surcharge, the premier said, shows that B.C. is right in advocating a common market between the U.S. and Canada which would remain separate countries but with fully-shared trading interests.

Meanwhile, Bennett added, the B.C. economy is making "great headway" in the face of current international economic troubles.

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) — Bolivian air force planes, armed cars and bazooka-carrying mountain troops Monday dislodged an estimated 1,000 leftist students from La Paz' San Andres University, crushing the last vestige of opposition to the country's new right-wing military government.

More than 100 students entrenched in the university were arrested after two Second World War P51 Mustang fighters bombed and strafed their barricaded positions to cover advancing troops. The planes dropped bombs that blew up the top storey of the brown-painted, 15-story building. Fighting lasted less than 30 minutes.

Ambulances rushed to the scene but there was no immediate estimate on the number of persons killed or injured. The students had resisted for more than 12 hours a government ultimatum to lay down arms and surrender.

Armored cars were sent to the scene from the EL Alto air force base to back up an estimated 180 mountain troops dispatched to the university by Bolivia's new nationalist president, Col. Hugo Banzer. The troops had orders to flush out the last nests of leftist holdouts against the regime and Banzer called in the air.

Cure Called Miracle

Pictured romping in tree near her home in Dennistown, Glasgow, is six-year-old Frances Burns, whose cure from cancer has been called "miracle." Three years ago, told there was no hope for the child, her mother took her to the Roman Catholic Shrine of Lourdes, in France, where she was bathed in the sacred spring. # Widespread Insurrection Hits Philippines—Marcos

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand Marcos declared Monday that armed communist rebels with foreign support had infiltrated almost every level of Philippines society and an insurrection is in progress.

To combat it, he said, police have been empowered since Saturday night to arrest without warrants and to detain indefinitely without charge. He would invoke martial law if the situation worsens. The president's emergency proclamation drew denunciations from political opponents and others who accused Marcos of trying to silence administration critics.

Military intelligence sources said more than 20 persons suspected of leading the reported insurrection had been detained since Sunday for questioning. The Philippines constitution forbids detention for more than six hours without charge.

The president's announcement came two days after explosions at a political rally in downtown Manila killed nine persons and wounded more than 90, including most leaders of the Liberal party opposing Marcos.

Sunday night, three Nationalist party government facilities were bombed but no one was injured.

In a radio and television address, Marcos said the rebels follow the teachings of Marx, Lenin and Mao, and have the moral and material support of a foreign power.

The board of directors of the National Press Club charged that Marcos had delivered "a severe blow to civil liberties."

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Patrick Murphy charged Monday that literally dozens of police officers have accepted $10,000 bribes from narcotics pushers in recent years to turn a blind eye to the drug traffic.

He said in a radio interview that the $10,000 sum for an average bribe was not an exaggerated figure.

Murphy said he could hardly imagine allowing ranking officials to remain in the service if they refused to fill out the questionnaires about their financial status he gave them at a tumultuous meeting earlier in the day.

The commissioner said Sunday he was fed up with what he termed the failure of top commanders to root out corruption, and met Monday

'Things To Change' Haddock Will Run For Mayor Again

By HUBERT BEYER

Well rested and full of enthusiasm, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock bounced back to civic life Monday.

Nixon Visit Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Some preliminary feelers are being sent to Washington to encourage President Nixon to visit Ottawa this fall. Prime Minister Trudeau is reported to be anxious to meet Nixon to discuss U.S. economic moves. Trudeau is said to be anxious for a personal meeting with Nixon — but in Canada.

Trudeau went to Washington two years ago, and at that time invited Nixon to come to Canada.

The government is not happy with opposition statements that a Canadian delegation went to Washington "with cap in hand" to seek favors for Canada.

On his plans to run for mayor again in the December civic elections, Haddock had this to say:

"My name will stand unless I get a direct order from my doctor not to continue in public office and I have no reason to believe that he will do so."

"I've been told that I came out of this (the heart attack) with no damage at all. I may have to cut back somewhat on the workload though."

"When I was first elected, I thought my job was to listen quietly and mediate, but I'm through listening," Haddock said.

"From now on, I intend to make my views known — loud and clear," he added.

He lashed out at Curtis for what Haddock said was a suggestion that Victoria transfer ownership of Thelma Lake Park to the Capital Regional Board without financial compensation.

"I would have Mr. Curtis know that as long as I'm mayor of this city I will not participate in the dissipation of the taxpayers' assets. Why

Thieu Rejects Ky's Proposal

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has told top South Vietnamese officials he rejects Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky's proposal that they both resign to pave the way for new elections within 90 days, sources close to Thieu said today.

A palace source said Thieu feels the Oct. 3 presidential election should go ahead as planned.

Sources said Thieu outlined his objection to the plan during a lengthy meeting Monday with his cabinet and four military region commanders. Ky made the proposal earlier Monday in announcing his refusal to campaign in the Oct. 3 presidential election. Thieu was believed to have given the same message to U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker during a 40-minute meeting Monday night at Independence Palace.

The rejection was a severe blow to Bunker, who has worked tirelessly in recent days to break the impasse.

Chief Says Boy Shot in Back

RESTIGOUCHE, Que. (CP) — Micmac Chief William Wyssotte said Monday the first of two Indian youths shot here Saturday "was shot in the back without warning."

Chief Wyssotte said in a statement no Indians from the Restigouche reserve attempted to enter or burn the local school where the shooting took place. The first youth was sitting on the school steps when he was shot.

Quebec Provincial Police at Rimouski, 190 miles west of here, said the shots were fired by a guard hired by the school board to protect school property.

A police spokesman said a call was received from Irene Pettigrew, principal at the local school, saying Indians were breaking windows in the building.

"How many there were, we weren't told, but we sent officers to keep the peace."

Nine men were sent Saturday and 10 more Sunday to maintain order at the reserve but they returned to their posts after the weekend. A 29-year-old Restigouche man and a 13-year-old Pembroke, Ont., boy were at first reported wounded but Chief Wyssotte said Monday that two teenagers were shot.

He said a report that one of the victims had a leg amputated as a result of bullet wounds was not accurate.

"First of all," the chief said, "there was no attempt made to enter or burn the school."

"The first youth was shot in the back without warning while sitting on the steps of the school."

WOMAN KILLED IN BUS CRASH

KAMLOOPS (CP) — One woman was killed and about 20 passengers injured Monday night when a Greyhound bus bound for Vancouver and a small truck collided 10 miles west of here.

The dead woman was believed to be a bus passenger. No further details were immediately available.

Kennedy Evidence Turns Up Missing

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — Some of the evidence in the Robert Kennedy assassination case is missing, it was disclosed Monday.

Deputy District Attorney Richard Hecht made the disclosure after a grand jury wound up a five-day hearing into allegations of possible tampering in the Los Angeles county clerk's office with evidence used at the Sirhan Sirhan trial.

Sirhan was convicted and condemned to death for the June 5, 1968, slaying of Sen. Kennedy.

The missing evidence, according to Hecht, is copies of exhibits introduced during the Sirhan court proceedings. He refused to elaborate, but indicated that the grand jury may soon issue a special report on its findings in the matter.

Bus Blown Up in Suicide Try

Fugitives 'Alert' South Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — Twenty-three inmates of a South Korean island military prison killed 12 prison officials and escaped by boat Monday. Fifteen of the fugitives blew themselves up in what's believed a mass suicide a few hours later when surrounded by troops and police. The fleeing prisoners, armed with carbines and pistols, killed at least three more persons, including two policemen, and wounded 11 others during a 20-mile ride toward Seoul aboard a commandeered passenger bus, Defense Minister Jung Nae-Huk told a news conference.

Jung said the mass break for freedom was finally halted south of Seoul by army troops and policemen. Fifteen of the escaped prisoners blew themselves up aboard the bus in an apparent mass suicide, Jung said.

Four survived the explosion and were taken to an army hospital. Another had been shot and killed in Incheon, where three others had been wounded and captured. Jung said that in addition to the 12 prison officials killed, another was wounded and seven others were missing.

South Korean military authorities originally thought the escaped prisoners were communist North Korean agents trying to raid Seoul. The defence ministry put all South Korean forces on special alert. Three hours later the alert was called off when it was determined the men were not North Koreans. Jung said the escaped prisoners were from the air force prison on Shilmi Island off Incheon 20 miles west of Seoul. They staged a mutiny Monday morning and took over a civilian bus to sail to Incheon where they commandeered the bus. It was about eight hours after the mutiny started that the bus was stopped near Seoul. Jung indicated he would resign to take the responsibility for the mutiny.

Sayward Art Show Sunday

Valley Artists Combine For $10,000

SAYWARD—Thirty artists in the Sayward Valley have pledged themselves to raise $10,000 in the next two years to enable them to visit art centres in Europe in 1973.

Towards this end they will present an outdoor art show and auction this Sunday on the banks of the Salmon River at Sayward, near Kelsey Bay, alongside Glen Duncan's Logging Museum and Hetty Fredrickson's "Valley of 1,000 Faces."

Prize mover in the project is Mrs. Fredrickson, whose face portraits painted on rounds of cedar logs are gaining world-wide recognition. Her fellow artists have taken up her idea enthusiastically and each will donate one of his latest works to be auctioned at the show, proceeds of which will go towards the fund. As well, there will be other examples of their work on display and for sale.

To further promote interest in the art show, she has written a letter to Pablo Picasso, asking him to support the proposed tour with a donation, or one of his paintings.

"Even if he replies with a big no," says Mrs. Fredrickson, "then I'll have his letter to auction."

This gifted painter, who teaches an art class in Sayward, said the idea came to her last winter and she decided to raise $10,000 within the next two years that would enable the group to visit some of the important art centres such as London, Amsterdam, Paris and Florence.

"Visiting museums and seeing the works of old and modern masters will have a tremendous influence on the artistic achievements of our Sayward artists and it will most certainly develop their creative ability," she said.

The fund-raising was launched during Sayward's annual art show in May when a silver collection realized $60. A feature of the up-island community's Centennial Day

Talks To Air Pay Confusion

PORT ALBERNI — Local 145 of the IWA has arranged meetings with senior officials of the Unemployment Insurance Commission to discuss various aspects of the new Unemployment Insurance Act, secretary John Squire said at the weekend.

"We are anxious to work out problems which have arisen in conjunction with holiday pay," Squire said.

A meeting has been set up for Wednesday with B.C. regional director Duncan Young to establish just how the application of holiday pay earnings will affect unemployment insurance payments.

—Helen Mitchell
Mrs. Fredrickson

was a beer garden and proceeds amounting to over $100 also went to the fund.

The Aug. 29 art show will be open from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and the auction will begin at 2 p.m. Douglas Fredrickson will be the auctioneer.

Mrs. Fredrickson was born in Indonesia and raised in Holland where she studied art in The Hague. She has many more projects in mind for raising funds for the European trip.

"There is no doubt in my mind that we will have the money together by the summer of 1973," she said.

GULF MURRAY AWARD WINNER

Another Gulf Murrey Award Winner's name was released today by the Murrey Award Selection Committee.

David "Twinkles" Warren, pride of the West Coast, has been added to that ever swelling list of men who have been recognized for giving Canadian drivers Hurry Service above and beyond the call of duty.

In reading the citation, a Hurry Awards spokesman noted the shortness of Mr. Warren's legs and the 35 yard sprint required to cover the distance from his station to the pump island. "Moving 225 lbs. across a distance like that in less than 10 seconds is worth a medal all by itself," he pointed out. The spokesman went on to mention that Mr. Warren's winning of Gulf's Golden Dipstick Trophy for fastest oil check in the West had been a major factor influencing the Committee's decision.

Mr. Warren plans to strive to reach one of the few remaining plateaus left for him to conquer, place on the Gulf Hurry All Star Team.

"It would make Mom happy," he said.

When you're in a hurry for gas, call in at any Gulf station. The man with the medals are fast!

New Fire Truck Much Faster

QUALICUM BEACH — The Howe Home Bay fire protection district has bought a fire truck from the Surrey fire department. The vehicle will be used to replace a 1939 Dodge, which had been converted to a fire truck in 1945 at Cedar south of Nanaimo, when it was used in that department.

The replacement truck is a 1962 GMC with a Bickles Sea Grave pump unit capable of delivering 500 gallons of water a minute at a pressure of more than 100 pounds a square inch. The truck has a 500 gallon water carrying tank, which when used with the two 400 foot hose reels would last for 10 to 20 minutes.

Volunteer firemen tested the truck and pump at Nile Creek recently and are impressed with the results, according to Bob Patch, who is chairman of the fire protection district.

Patch said the fire protection district hopes that with the new truck and 1,000 feet of extra two-and-a-half inch hose, it will be able to upgrade the equipment sufficiently so that insurance rates in the area will be reduced.

Property owners pay a mill rate of 2.23 for fire protection.

The fire district also has a tank truck which carries 1,500 gallons of water but is much slower than the new vehicle. Firemen will be able to get to a fire quickly with the new truck and will use the 500 gallons of water it carries while waiting for the tanker.

Pretty face. Nice figure.

A lot of pretty nice girls drive Toyota Corollas. (One out of every three Corollas are bought by women.) We figure it's because women just naturally know a good bargain when they see it. They know how much a gallon of gas costs and how nice it is to go up to 35 miles on one. They know about the optional automatic and 4-speed all synchromesh transmissions. (Even if they don't know what all the synchromesh is about.)

They also know that along with every Corolla you get a lot of nice gadgets. Like fully reclining front bucket seats, an electric rear window defroster, Fresh-Flow ventilation, and front disc brakes.

But there's another reason why so many women buy the Corolla. They like the way it looks. And they naturally feel that one pretty face and nice figure deserves another.

And so it does.

PORT ALBERNI — A month-long strike by fallers at Macmillan Bloedel's Sproat Lake division near Port Alberni has caused the company to shut down all logging operations there.

The shutdown, which began at the end of the last strike Monday, puts about 400 men out of work.

In a statement, issued Monday, Macmillan Bloedel attributed the shutdown to "continuing illegal strike by International Woodworkers of America fallers."

The fallers have not worked since July 21 because of the dispute which involves Workmen's Compensation Board regulations.

The dispute centres around

Stoppage Leaves 400 Out of Work

Lengthy Fallers Strike
Closes Sproat Lake

PORT ALBERNI — A month-long strike by fallers at Macmillan Bloedel's Sproat Lake division near Port Alberni has caused the company to shut down all logging operations there.

The shutdown, which began at the end of the last shift Monday, puts about 400 men out of work.

In a statement, issued Monday, Macmillan Bloedel attributed the shutdown to a "continuing illegal strike by International Woodworkers of America fallers."

The fallers have not worked since July 21 because of the dispute which involves Workmen's Compensation Board regulations.

The dispute centres around the distance scalers and other workmen must be from fallers when trees are being cut. Board regulations state that other workmen must be at least 300 feet from the faller, but the loggers contend each faller should have one scaler with him at all times to warn him of dangers.

This means, Macmillan Bloedel said, that they are demanding an employment ratio of one scaler for each faller which is "a higher ratio of scalers than is common practice in the industry."

John Squire, secretary of Local 1-85 of the IWA, said in an interview Monday that a meeting was called Sunday night between company and union officers. As a result of this meeting, he said, the fallers reported for work Monday morning, but then the whole dispute "blew up again." He did not elaborate. Squire said the dispute was over "a question of safety."

"The men feel a great deal of apprehension over the application of (the compensation board) safety regulations. It is not a question of their right; it is a question of their very existence."

He explained that the regulations state that a second man can be at a tree only in the event of a dangerous situation. The fallers "feel that every situation is potentially dangerous" at the Sproat Lake division and that, therefore, two men should be at each tree being cut down.

Squire pointed to a long list of deaths and injuries to fallers and buckers at the division which, he said, had caused apprehension.

Although the loggers have been on strike for a month, the company has kept other phases of the operation such as yarding and hauling going.

utilizing the inventory of felled and bucked logs available at the division.

"However," Macmillan Bloedel said in its statement, "it had advised all employees that operations could continue only until inventories had been depleted to the point where there was no longer economical" to carry on.

"Last Thursday the crews were advised this point would be reached today (Monday). The fallers refused to work today until their demand was met and the company had no alternative but to shutdown all operations indefinitely."

A meeting is planned between union, company and board representatives Thursday to try to resolve the dispute.

Nanaimo Safeway Case
Withdrawn for Present

until there has been a final outcome in a Victoria test case on the similar charge.

Prosecutor Jean Horn explained outside of court he had withdrawn the charge on instructions from the attorney-general's department with the intention to lay it again later if the end result of the Victoria case warranted it.

The Nanaimo charge was against the Canada Safeway store at Harbor Park Shopping Centre in Nanaimo, and involved the refunding of money on soft drink cans returned to the store.

A similar charge against a Victoria Safeway store was dismissed last week in Victoria Provincial Court by Judge William Ostler on the grounds that the provisions of the act were not explicit enough on the matter of whether a store must offer refunds or whether it may send customers to a separate depot to receive them.

The crown has not yet decided whether it will appeal Ostler's ruling.

Horn said that when he learned of Ostler's decision, he asked the attorney-general's department if he should not stay the case until it was decided whether or not there would be an appeal and if there was, until it was heard. The department agreed.

"It seemed pointless to have two test cases concerning the interpretation of the same act going on at once," Horn said.

The Nanaimo charge was laid June 29 by a former Nanaimo alderman, John Hancock.

Judge in the Nanaimo case was Stanley Wardill. Don Camille appeared as counsel for Safeway.

70-Year-Old Man
Threatens Violence

NANAIMO — For four years George White has been trying to get Nanaimo city to fix a smelly ditch on the boulevard in front of his home at 740 Victoria Road.

"So far he has had no action, and I'm fed up," he said.

So Monday, White went to the RCMP detachment to say that unless something was done by Aug. 31, "there will be violence."

The problem is a deep ditch on the boulevard in front of the house at 736 Victoria Road and adjacent to White's property.

He said that after a rain the four-inch pipe in the ditch lets go a steady torrent of water that doesn't smell very good and could be polluted.

White, 70, is a native son who was a coal miner, then a logger before retiring and working for two years as a city hall maintenance man. "We've lived for 43 years in this house," he said.

White said he is concerned about the health of school children who play in the ditch when school is in.

He said he has tried four times to get the water analyzed and each time has been stalled.

City engineer Art Leynard said members of his department and building inspector Ben Boers have visited the site but have never been able to find anything wrong.

Leynard said he thinks the pipe may be part of a drainage channel that was once a small creek in the city's southern district. During Nanaimo's coal mining days the area was the Gordon Estate.

Leynard said: "If he has a valid complaint we will try to solve it. It is not a closed issue."

However, he said, the city is just not in a financial position to have a storm drain in every street.

St. Catherines Stays Open

Indians Win
School Battle

DUNCAN — Cowichan School Board Monday night was told by Leonard Antoine of the Cowichan Indian Band education committee that St. Catherine's school will remain open.

He said the decision came after Indian band members met with Indian affairs department officials recently.

There will be 63 students in Grades 1, 2 and 3.

Antoine said: "It took us a long time to convince Indian affairs officials that the school should be open. There are some slow learners in that school and parents are afraid to send their children to public schools."

He said the Indian affairs department would like St. Catherine's school closed.

In reply to a question from school board chairman David Hayward, Antoine said parents have a choice as to the schools they want to send their children to.

The school board accepted two tenders from Burke Construction Ltd. for a gymnasium and administration addition at Crofton elementary school, totalling $80,528, and for a similar addition for $87,380 at Mill Bay elementary school.

The board also received and filed a petition regarding the purchase of Partridge school. The petitioners want the board to buy the school.

Traffic Laws Joined With Single Bylaw

PORT ALBERNI — City council Monday night introduced a far-reaching and comprehensive traffic bylaw which consolidated and updated bylaws in existence in Alberni and Port Alberni before amalgamation.

City clerk Dennis Thain said it was largely a matter of consolidation since Alberni previously had its original bylaw plus seven amendments while Port Alberni had its original bylaw and 10 amendments.

"We have now brought the bylaw thoroughly up to date. For example, innovations such as studded tires are covered in the new bylaw and we have much more comprehensive weight and size regulations," Thain said.

Merchants who have been using the city streets for display purposes will now find that they are liable to fines of not less than $5 and not more than $100 or a month's jail if they use the streets to display "boats, trailers or other chattels."

Previously there was no provision against the use of city streets as playgrounds. Now it is definitely a violation to use the streets for recreation purposes.

Provision has also been made for the institution of one-way streets on an if, as and when basis. None are in use as yet. Similarly, mid-block pedestrian crossings are provided for in the 29-page bylaw, which is expected to be passed at next month's council meeting.

A similar charge against a Victoria Safeway store was dismissed last week in Victoria Provincial Court by Judge William Ostler on the grounds that the provisions of the act were not explicit enough on the matter of whether a store must offer refunds

Family Escapes Death

GALIANO ISLAND — Two members of a Saskatoon family escaped serious injury Sunday night when their 39-foot houseboat burned and sank near Parker Island in Montague Harbor on the west side of Galiano Island.

Frank Kwozler and his 11-year-old son Eric were able to get off the blazing craft in a smaller boat. Another boat operator, Dave Keim, towed the dinghy into Ganges Harbor on Salt Spring Island.

Both were admitted to Lady Minto Hospital in Ganges. Eric was released after treatment but his father was detained after he suffered a heart attack. He was listed in satisfactory condition Monday.

The burning boat started a bush fire on Parker Island after it drifted ashore but this was quickly brought under control by a forest department crew from Galiano Island.

Arts Council
Funds Bid
Falls Short

DUNCAN — The Cowichan Valley Regional Arts Council has failed in its bid to match a $75,000 Duncan city council grant for a theatre-auditorium complex.

A special meeting of the city council was held Monday afternoon by arts council chairman, Ted Fox, that his group would only be able to raise $20,000 by the September deadline.

The $75,000 was originally earmarked for an auditorium-meeting hall in the new senior citizen library structure, which is now under construction.

However, the city centennial committee and the arts council told city council that the proposed hall could not be used for any of the performing arts groups and council decided to drop the hall from its plans.

Fox told council that his group was willing to pay $1,000 towards the architects' fee of $2,385 which incurred through the re-designing of the centre. At a future special meeting city council will decide whether it will go along with the arts council proposal to pay only part of the architects' fee. The council earlier had said it was prepared to meet architects' fees up to $5,000.

In other business, the special council meeting accepted a new plan for the development of new premises at Government Street and Allenby Road by Norman Gourlay.

Chairman of the planning and development committee, Ald. Allan Kerr, said that the new proposal meets all the city bylaws.

First three readings of the ambulance bylaw were also given and a vote will be held Sept. 25.

Provincial Park Campers
Find the Word of Jesus

PARKSVILLE — The word of Jesus, through the efforts of the Salvation Army, has been brought to the beaches and provincial parks of Vancouver Island this summer.

The message of religion, complete with magic tricks has proved popular with young and old and Army officials say that many of the children attracted to the events have never been inside a Sunday school and have heard the gospel for the first time while camping in B.C.

With approval of the B.C. government, Salvation Army Captain Woodrow Hale and a team of students from the University of British Columbia have spent the summer bringing religion — combined with entertainment — to campers while at the same time, conducting a religious survey.

Hale said his team has covered all the major parks on the island, including the new Pacific Rim National Park.

He said that while he found up to 700 hippies living on Wreck Bay, and a great deal of nudity there, "they were all anxious to talk" and many had some very strange ideas of religion.

Hale is also a member of the International Union of Christian Magicians and at the end of the beach and park services, magic tricks take centre stage to entertain the children.

Hale said he had discovered no Jesus Freaks among B.C. campers but adults and children had all expressed interest in the services held and religious questions in general.

Jesus Freaks, widely known in U.S. centres have become a new teenage trend, officials said, attracting many young people away from drugs and drug abuse.

Bennett Still Optimist

Premier Bennett said Monday he is "very optimistic" that B.C. exports to the U.S. will suffer relatively little as a result of the import surcharge introduced by President Nixon.

"The part of Canada which will be hurt most" by the surcharge, Bennett said, are the manufacturing centres of Ontario and Quebec.

He said as far as B.C. is concerned pulp and paper exports aren't affected and lumber exports will likely only be subjected to a surcharge of $3 a thousand feet.

The concern shown by Ottawa over the effects of the surcharge, the premier said, shows that B.C. is right in advocating a common market between the U.S. and Canada which would remain separate countries but with fully-shared trading interests.

Meanwhile, Bennett added, the B.C. economy is making "great headway" in the face of current international economic troubles.

He quoted Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures showing 891,000 persons gainfully employed in the province in July, 48,000 more than for the same month in 1970.

"In spite of this," Bennett said, "British Columbia still had a reduction in unemployment for the 12-month period, July to July, of 17,000. In July, 1970, there were 76,000 unemployed and by last July this figure had dropped to 59,000."

Fugitives 'Alert' South Korea

SEOUL (UPI) — Twenty-three inmates of a South Korean island military prison killed 12 prison officials and escaped by boat Monday.

toils, killed at least three more persons, including two policemen, and wounded 11 others during a 20-mile ride toward Seoul aboard a commandeered passenger bus.

South Korean military authorities originally thought the escaped prisoners were communist North Korean agents trying to raid Seoul.

They staged a mutiny Monday morning and took over a civilian boat to sail to Inchon where they commandeered the bus.

Some of the evidence in the Robert Kennedy assassination case is missing, it was disclosed Monday.

The missing evidence, according to Hecht, is copies of exhibits introduced during the Sirhan court proceedings.

Truck Plugs Deas Tunnel

VANCOUVER (CP) — Southbound rush-hour traffic was delayed Monday afternoon when a truck carrying a high load jammed the entrance to Deas Island tunnel.

Both lanes in the southbound side of the tunnel were closed for close to 45 minutes before highway crews restored the tunnel lights and cleared debris.

Sunday night, three Naclon-

Military intelligence sources said more than 20 persons suspected of leading the reported insurrection had been detained since Sunday for questioning.

The Philippines constitution forbids detention for more than six hours without charge.

The president's announcement came two days after explosions at a political rally in downtown Manila killed nine persons and wounded more than 90, including most leaders of the Liberal party opposing Marcos.

Mayor Plans To Run Again

By HUBERT BEYER

Well rested and full of enthusiasm, Victoria Mayor Courtney Haddock bounced back to civic life Monday.

Nixon Visit Sought

OTTAWA (CP) — Some preliminary feelers are being sent to Washington to encourage President Nixon to visit Ottawa this fall.

Prime Minister Trudeau is reported to be anxious to meet Nixon to discuss U.S. economic moves.

Trudeau is said to be anxious for a personal meeting with Nixon — but in Canada.

Trudeau went to Washington two years ago, and at that time invited Nixon to come to Canada.

The government is not happy with opposition statements that a Canadian delegation went to Washington "with cap in hand" to seek favors for Canada.

In his first interview since he suffered a heart attack July 13, Haddock:

Said he will definitely seek re-election in December:

Fired several broadsides at Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis:

Called Ald. Peter Pollen an opportunist "who seeks publicity for personal reasons":

Vowed that a lot of things will change when he's back at city hall Sept. 7.

The interview was held at Haddock's invitation in the living room of his seaside home.

On his plans to run for mayor again in the December civic elections, Haddock had this to say:

"My name will stand unless I get a direct order from my doctor not to continue in public office and I have no reason to believe that he will do so."

"I've been told that I came out of this (the heart attack) with no damage at all. I may have to cut back somewhat on the workload though."

"When I was first elected, I thought my job was to listen quietly and mediate, but I'm through listening," Haddock said.

"From now on, I intend to make my views known — loud and clear," he added.

He lashed out at Curtis for what Haddock said was a suggestion that Victoria transfer ownership of Thetis Lake Park to the Capital Regional Board without financial compensation.

"I would have Mr. Curtis know that as long as I'm mayor of this city I will not participate in the dissipation of the taxpayers' assets. Why

Fright for Hiccups Turns Into Death

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — An off-duty security guard has been booked on suspicion of murder in the fatal shooting of a woman he reportedly was trying to frighten out of an attack of hiccups.

Police said Ralph D. Booker, 31, pulled out his .38-calibre pistol in an effort to scare Diane Good, 21, suffering from a seizure of hiccups, and the weapon discharged.

Thieu Rejects Ky's Proposal

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu has told top South Vietnamese officials he rejects Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky's proposal that they both resign to pave the way for new elections within 90 days, sources close to Thieu said today.

A palace source said Thieu feels the Oct. 3 presidential election should go ahead as planned.

Sources said Thieu outlined his objection to the plan during a lengthy meeting Monday with his cabinet and four military region commanders. Ky made the proposal earlier Monday in announcing his refusal to campaign in the Oct. 3 presidential election.

Thieu was believed to have given the same message to U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker during a 40-minute meeting Monday night at Independence Palace.

The rejection was a severe blow to Bunker, who has worked tirelessly in recent days to break the impasse

Chief Says Boy Shot in Back

RESTIGOUCHE, Que. (CP) — Micmac Chief William Wyszotte said Monday the first of two Indian youths shot here Saturday "was shot in the back without warning."

Chief Wyszotte said in a statement no Indians from the Restigouche reserve attempted to enter or burn the local school where the shooting took place. The first youth was sitting on the school steps when he was shot.

Quebec Provincial Police at Rimouski, 100 miles west of here, said the shots were fired by a guard hired by the school board to protect school property.

A police spokesman said a call was received from Irene Pettigrew, principal at the local school, saying Indians were breaking windows in the building.

"How many there were, we weren't told, but we sent officers to keep the peace."

Nine men were sent Saturday and 10 more Sunday to maintain order at the reserve but they returned to their posts after the weekend.

A 29-year-old Restigouche man and a 13-year-old Pembroke Ont. boy were at first reported wounded but Chief Wyszotte said Monday that two teenagers were shot.

He said a report that one of the victims had a leg amputated as a result of bullet wounds was not accurate.

"First of all," the chief said, "there was no attempt made to enter or burn the school."

"The first youth was shot in the back without warning while sitting on the steps of the school."

Woman Killed In Bus Crash

KAMLOOPS (CP) — One woman was killed and about 20 passengers injured Monday night when a Greyhound bus bound for Vancouver and a small truck collided 10 miles west of here.

The dead woman was believed to be a bus passenger. No further details were immediately available.

Kennedy Evidence Turns Up Missing

LOS ANGELES (LAT) — Some of the evidence in the Robert Kennedy assassination case is missing, it was disclosed Monday.

Deputy District Attorney Richard Hecht made the disclosure after a grand jury wound up a five-day hearing into allegations of possible tampering in the Los Angeles county clerk's office with evidence used at the Sirhan trial.

Sirhan was convicted and condemned to death for the June 5, 1968, slaying of Sen. Kennedy.

The missing evidence, according to Hecht, is copies of exhibits introduced during the Sirhan court proceedings. He refused to elaborate, but indicated that the grand jury may soon issue a special report on its findings in the matter.
